Specialist Discusses Atom Ashes

Will Meet Jap Doctors Tomorrow About 23 Fishermen Now Under Treatment for Burns

Tokyo, March 23 (AP)—The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission's top medical specialist conferred today with diplomats and scientists concerning 23 Japanese fishermen showered by radioactive ashes in a mighty hydrogen test blast.

Prof. Merril Eisenbud, director of the AEC's Health and Safety Laboratory, talked with U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison and other officials.

He will meet tomorrow with Japanese doctors treating the fishermen, who were injured March 1.

The U. S. Embassy said Eisenbud was under strict orders "to say nothing—or as little as possible." It stressed that his orders forbade even an informal press conference.

The scientist arrived last night and was whisked to a U. S. Army hotel under tight security restrictions.

Japanese newspapers, which have given the story top page one play since it broke nine days ago, criticized what they called U. S. interference in the treatment of the fishermen.

The Asahi Evening News carried a big headline "Local Scientists Want Free Hand in Treatment."

To Work Independently

The paper quoted Dr. Masao Tsuzuki, chief physician for the ailing men, as saying "Japanese scientists will independently treat the victims and carry out investigations."

American doctors have helped treat the men since their arrival in Japan several days after the March 1 explosion in the central Pacific. There has been no report, however, of a move to take the fisherman out of the hands of Japanse physicians.

The Japanese Welfare Ministry said the 21 victims still at the Port of Yaizu will be brought to Tokyo for treatment. The two most seriously burned have been here since shortly after their fishing boat, the Lucky Dragon, arrived home.

Planning Compensation

American and Japanese diplomates are negotiating possible compensation for the injured men.

Japan claims the ship was 80 miles from the Bikini test site and 20 miles outside the official danger zone when the blast occurred and it was showered by radioactive ashes. The danger zone since has been enlarged by many times.

American sources indicated that while the U. S. Government hasn't accepted the Japanese position, there will be no hair-splitting in the matter of compensation.

"Americans are usually generous, especially when innocent people are hurt," one spokesman said.

Dentist 36 Years Thrills at Result Of Fluoride Test

Notes 'Same Old Story' in Kingston as He Holds Newburgh Up for Proof

Boston, March 23 (AP)—A Worcester dentist, specializing in the care of children's teeth for 36 years, said today he was "thrilled" when he saw the beneficial results of a fluoride test in Newburgh, N. Y.

Dr. George C. Brown, testifying at a hearing on a series of bills which propose banning of fluoridation of drinking water in Massachusetts, said he went to Newburgh to see the fluorine test.

"I have never seen so many children with cavity-free teeth," he said.

And Dr. Brown said that he also went to Kingston, N. Y., which was the "control" for the Newburgh experiment.

No fluorine was put into the water in Kingston.

"It was the same old story at Kingston," he said.

Dr. Brown disputed statements made by anti-fluorine groups during four days of hearings they have had before the Committee on Public Health. Assertions were made that the fluorine tests were something new.

Report From Colorado

"I have a report from Colorado Springs," he said, "where they have records dating back 75 years on the effect of fluorine on teeth."

He said the Colorado Springs area—where fluorine compounds occur in the natural water supplies showed a remarkable freedom from cavities in children's teeth.

And he told the committee that Dr. B. H. Walker, biochemist at Boston University School of Medicine, had written a report that there was no difference in the

Booth Is Readied for Opening Tonight

Busy hands put final touches to the tree nursery booth at the state armory in preparation for the grand opening of the Lions Club Exposition at 7 p. m. today. At that time opening outdoor ceremonies will be held on the front steps of the armory with Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Lions President William R. Stall, Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commander of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, and Larry Jenson, first vice president of the Lions Club and general chairman of the exposition, will bring greetings. Max Oppenheimer, who is in charge of the opening, will introduce the speakers. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, Lions Club chaplain, will pronounce the invocation. The Boys Drum Corps, a group of 25 boys under the direction of Albert Rossi, will present a "surprise" act and the new field lighting system on the parking grounds built with funds from the Lions Club, will be dedicated. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the doors will be flung open and the exposition with its 60 booths and 28 automobiles, including some of the new sports models, will officially commence. (Freeman photo)

Ellenville School Plans Most Modern Designs

Education Buildings to Be Ready in 1956 on Former Driving Park Track

Approval of the $3,100,014 bond issue last week by the voters of Central School District No. 2, Ellenville, sets the stage for a building program which it is hoped will be ready in September 1956 to provide for the students of the district one of the most modern and efficient school plants in this area.

The proposed Junior-Senior high school and elementary school system as proposed will be centered about the present Maple Avenue School on the site of the former Ellenville driving park which the Ellenville board of education acquired several years ago.

To Enlarge Present School

Included in the building program is a plan to rehabilitate and add to the present building on Maple avenue for Junior-Senior high school purposes. This will include 21 general class rooms, biology room, chemistry-physics

Draft Cards Must Be Carried by Males Up to 32

Selective Service Board Gives Regulations for Those in Age Group

Men up to the age of 32 are still expected to carry their draft cards with them at all times.

That was one of several regulations which a check at the local Selective Service Board at 516 Broadway disclosed are still in effect.

An occasional local arrest for violation of the United States Code provisions applying to Selective Service prompted an inquiry at the office of Local Boards 18 (city) and 19 (county) as to current regulations, particularly in regard to those in the 30-year-old group who were drafted more than a decade ago, completed their service during World War 2 and have settled down to their niches in the community. Walter E. Dutcher at the Selective Service office provided the following information.

Every man over 18 who was born in August, 1922, or later must have a Selective Service registration card and under the law must have it in his possession at all times. Men in this group who are between 24 and 32 years old at the present received their registration cards in 1948 during the registration period. Those younger than 24 received their cards upon registration when they reached 18.

Must Report to Board

Even though the older men in the group are beyond draft age under present operation of Selective Service, the law still provides that they must, in addition to carrying their registration card, notify the local Selective Service Board, in writing, of changes in address and marital status.

Younger men in the group, who were drafted since registering and had their cards taken from them by the armed forces, should either have an armed forces reserve card as proof that they registered or served in the military forces, or should have a registra-

Ewig Will Head Jewish Welfare Drive in County

Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, has accepted the 1954 chairmanship of the United Jewish Appeal and Welfare Fund drive to raise maximum funds on behalf of the life-saving and freedom-serving programs of the United Jewish Appeal. Funds raised here will be applied toward the UJA's nationwide goal of $119,921,150, the support of numerous recognized charities and the maintenance of the local Jewish Community Center.

In accepting the chairmanship of the local drive, Ewig said that he was inspired to do so "by Israel's great strides in overcoming her economic handicaps and her courageous advancement of peace and democracy in a section of the world where she stands as a rare example of the free way of life."

Ewig pointed out that 475,000 needy and distressed men, women and children in Israel, Europe, Moslem lands and the United States require settlement, welfare and rehabilitation aid, and

Teachers Support School Heads in 'Horseplay' Case

Education Board Expected to Meet Friday for Special Session With Parents

Teachers of Kingston High School yesterday adopted a resolution supporting the school administration in dealing with the recent incident in which a 16-year-old boy was injured in reported "horseplay" at the high school, and it was indicated today that the education board would hold a special meeting Friday night to consider the incident.

Henry Harjes, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harjes, Lucas avenue extension, was hospitalized over the weekend for injuries suffered Friday morning in the incident.

No Charges

John Schick, assistant district attorney, who has been investigating insofar as his office is presently empowered to, said today he has not been asked to act on any specific complaints or charges. He has been talking to persons concerned he said, and he indicated he will continue to determine whatever his office is allowed to at this time. As it now stands, it is mostly a school matter, he implied.

It was announced yesterday that local detectives were also assisting in the investigation, insofar as they might be called upon to act at this time.

Teachers' Resolution

The high school teachers reported unamiously adopting the following resolution yesterday:

"Whereas the administration has suffered public attack for its prompt action in the recent case of student misconduct, and

"Whereas such misconduct, if unpunished, would encourage others to do more serious breaches of discipline,

"Be it resolved,

Thousands of Japs Buried In Caves Beneath Iwo Jima

Iwo Jima, March 23 (AP)—Unknown thousands of Japanese soldiers lie buried in honeycombed caves beneath Iwo Jima while American marines ironically practice on the 9-year-old battlefield to defend Japan.

An air force chaplain who has studied the fantastic underground defenses said "I've seen at least 5,000 bodies."

A marine engineer said "there may be 10,000 bodies here. We all know there were 20,000 Japanese here and only a handful got off. It stands to reason the rest are still down in the caves."

The bodies are not buried. They rest where the men died or were carried.

The caves have been placed off limits by the military. However, many bodies have been uncovered accidentally by demoltion squads exploding old ammunition and sealing off caves for maneuvers by the 3rd Marine Division—part of the American force committed to the defense of Japan.

Marine Maj. Roland M. Daly of Spokane, Wash., reported sealing off two caves, one with 600 bodies and the second with up to 1,400. Although his estimates were hasty and probably high, demolition men report finding some bodies in almost every big cave.

The caves are littered with old and dangerous ammunition and explosives.

Hall and Mitchell Meet on First Name Basis; Non-Partisan Rally Is Not Just That

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—Shaking hands in the glare of flash bulbs, the national chairmen of America's two major political parties greeted each other on a first name basis last night.

"Hello, Steve," said Republican Leonard W. Hall cheerily as he met his oft-time verbal opponent at an anusual joint press conference.

"Hi, Len," replied Democrat Stephen A. Mitchell with a smile.

The press conference preceded a dinner meeting of Philadelphia's "Committee of Seventy," a non-partisan reform group which calls itself a "watchdog of politics" in the City of Brotherly Love. Hall and Mitchell were guest speakers.

"This press conference is just for your benefit," Mitchell told newsmen before the dinner. "We'll try not to get into any partisan debate."

Didn't Succeed

They tried but didn't entirely succeed. These were their answers to reporters' questions on controversial subjects, starting with the current dispute involving Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.)

Hall: "I agree with Sens. Knowland and Ferguson when they say McCarthy should step down as chairman of his investigating committee during forthcoming hearings on the Cohn-Army question."

Mitchell: "McCarthy, fortunately, isn't our problem. I'm just glad he's not a Democrat."

What comment have you on the nation's economy?

Mitchell: "It's obvious the econ-

Russians Claim Jet Invented by Soviet

Moscow, March 23 (AP) — The Soviet armed forces newspaper Red Star declared today the Soviet Union invented the jet-powered airplane and still leads in its development.

In a front page article calling on Russian airmen further to improve their techniques with jets under all flying conditions, Red Star said:

"The Soviet Union is the home of jet aviation. Soviet scientists were the first in the world to work out the theoretical fundamentals for the construction and exploitation of jet planes and Soviet designers produced examples of jets.

"Soviet fliers were the first to master individual and group flights with jets which achieved an extraordinary success."

The article did not mention any types of Soviet jet planes or builders.

Committee Members

Sen. Karl Mundt (R., S.D., left) and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, (R., Wis.) appear as members of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee at Washington. Subcommittee members cracked down on McCarthy when he tried to question Attorney General Brownell on why a newspaper man had not been prosecuted for espionage. He was told that the subcommittee was "not here to try espionage cases" but to consider appropriations. (NEA Telephoto).

Eisenhower May Speak On McCarthy-Army Row

Republican Leaders Are Pressuring Senator to Quit Quarrel With Service

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Republican bigwigs put mounting pressure on Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) today to drop out altogether from the inquiry into his row with the Army. There was a hint President Eisenhower himself may speak out on it tomorrow.

Asked Eisenhower's view, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said:

"I think I know how the President feels and I suggest you ask him that at his press conference."

There had been an indication last night that the White House was joining in pressure from Senate Republican leaders for McCarthy to stand aside altogether from the inquiry.

GOP Chairman Leonard Hall said in Philadelphia that he agreed with Senate leaders. And when asked whether he was reflecting the position of the Eisenhower administration, Hall said that would appear to be "a very sound deduction."

The specific question put to Hagerty was whether the President agreed with Hall.

Looking for Counsel

The Senate Investigations Subcommittee was meeting today to work out procedure for the inquiry and attempt to find a special counsel.

William J. Jameson, president of the American Bar Assn. (ABA), yesterday rejected the hot-spot post on grounds the ABA board of directors believed it would not be appropriate for him to serve. Jameson is a Republican from Billings, Mont.

Sen. Mundt (R.-S. D.) told newsmen the selection of someone else to direct the inquiry would have priority at today's subcommittee session, which was

Haymes Ordered Deported to His Native Argentina

Charge Crooner Illegally Re-entered U. S. After Visiting Rita Hayworth in Honolulu

Los Angeles, March 23 (AP) — Crooner Dick Haymes, accused of illegally re-entering the United States after a visit with Rita Hayworth in Honolulu last year, today was ordered deported to his native Argentina.

District Director H. R. Landon of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service announced:

"This order is final and a deportation warrant will be issued forthwith.

"However, the order is appealable within 15 days to the Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington, D. C., in which event deportation will be stayed pending disposition of such appeal."

Landon's announcement, handed to newsmen and containing the result of hearings here and in New York, said:

"Special Inquiry Officer Joseph A. Dummel found that Haymes became an alien ineligible to citizenship because of having filed an application for exemption as a neutral alien and such exemption having been granted and that, upon his return to the continental

All Police Cooperate In Big Job

J. Edgar Hoover Tells Important Things, on Recognizing Devices and Urges Caution

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The Justice Department today made public a circular sent to all U. S. law enforcement officials by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, requesting an alert against the possible smuggling of small atomic weapons into this country by enemy agents. The department said the letter was distributed in January. It followed a Dec. 15 statement by President Eisenhower in which he asked police officers at every level to report promptly to the FBI all information relating to violations of the Atomic Energy Act.

At the White House, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the Hoover letter was approved last December "by the National Security Council, which also means the President.

Eisenhower is chairman of the council.

To assist local police in recognizing atomic weapons which might be carried by an individual, Hoover gave a description of what such devices are likely to look like. He conceded at the same time that it would be impossible to describe exactly what form a foreign atomic bombs might take.

Cautions on Handling

The FBI director emphasized that individual law enforcement officers should not attempt to dismantle such devices after discovering them. He noted that the National Security Council has set up Explosive Ordnance Disposal Units operating under the army to disarm any illicit atomic weapon coming to the attention of police.

Hoover said in his notice that it was necessary that police generally have some basic information on the possible designs of smuggled atomic weapons. For this purpose, he explained:

"Atomic explosions result when (1) certain amounts of fissionable material in two pieces or more are brought quickly together to form one piece of such material and when (2) a certain amount of fissionable material is quickly made more dense by squeezing it together. The important thing about each of these methods is that masses of fissionable material must be placed into rapid motion. We know that high explosives are capable of giving any material such necessary rapid motion.

Explains Types

"In the first case we would look for some kind of a gun barrel device using high explosive to blow one piece of fissionable material from the breech end of the gun down through the barrel into another piece of fissionable material firmly anchored in the muzzle end of the gun.

In the second case, we would look for a device using high explosives to squeeze fissionable material."

He noted that the latter device would involve the principle of "implosion"—a bursting inward as contrasted with the bursting outward of an explosion.

Hoover said that when scientists worked on the first atom bomb they achieved implosion by build-

To End Long Service This Month

Creek Locks Post Office To Close; Is One of Oldest

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS

Those daily hellos at the Creek Locks post office will be said elsewhere and probably less frequently after March 31.

That's because the little post office which has moved about a bit since it started near the old Delaware & Hudson canal, as near as can be determined, in Civil War days, has been ordered to close by that date.

Believed to be one of the oldest in Ulster county's smaller communities, the office started in business for Uncle Sam when life was really stirring along the old canal —which wended through the Rondout Valley between here and Honesdale, Pa.

Mrs. Richard Sagar of Creek Locks, who assisted in gathering information on the post office, said it appears to have started in 1861 with Jacob Van Wagenen, father of Dr. Harry Van Wagenen, of Kingston, as the first postmaster.

Those were the days when letters might arrive in Creek Locks from such interesting points as Butler's Knock, which was Lock 57 on the water route. Or perhaps some mail might come from Widow Kelly, which was Lock 62 and Squire Van Tuyl's, which was Lock 64.

Creek Locks, which was appropriately named, had locks 3 and 4, the first two being at Eddyville. The canal had 110 of them.

Mrs. Hyman Gershuny, acting postmaster of the little post office, recently announced its scheduled

In a front page article calling on Russian airmen further to improve their techniques with jets under all flying conditions, Red Star said:

"The Soviet Union is the home of jet aviation. Soviet scientists were the first in the world to work out the theoretical fundamentals for the construction and exploitation of jet planes and Soviet designers produced examples of jets.

"Soviet fliers were the first to master individual and group flights with jets which achieved an extraordinary success."

The article did not mention any types of Soviet jet planes or builders.

Eisenhower May Speak On McCarthy-Army Row

Republican Leaders Are Pressuring Senator to Quit Quarrel With Service

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Republican bigwigs put mounting pressure on Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) today to drop out altogether from the inquiry into his row with the Army. There was a hint President Eisenhower himself may speak out on it tomorrow.

Asked Eisenhower's view, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said:

"I think I know how the President feels and I suggest you ask him that at his press conference."

There had been an indication last night that the White House was joining in pressure from Senate Republican leaders for McCarthy to stand aside altogether from the inquiry.

GOP Chairman Leonard Hall said in Philadelphia that he agreed with Senate leaders. And when asked whether he was reflecting the position of the Eisenhower administration, Hall said that would appear to be "a very sound deduction."

The specific question put to Hagerty was whether the President agreed with Hall.

Looking for Counsel

The Senate Investigations Subcommittee was meeting today to work out procedure for the inquiry and attempt to find a special counsel.

William J. Jameson, president of the American Bar Assn. (ABA), yesterday rejected the hot-spot post on grounds the ABA board of directors believed it would not be appropriate for him to serve. Jameson is a Republican from Billings, Mont.

Sen. Mundt (R.-S. D.) told newsmen the selection of someone else to direct the inquiry would have priority at today's subcommittee session, which was

Haymes Ordered Deported to His Native Argentina

Charge Crooner Illegally Re-entered U. S. After Visiting Rita Hayworth in Honolulu

Los Angeles, March 23 (AP) — Crooner Dick Haymes, accused of illegally re-entering the United States after a visit with Rita Hayworth in Honolulu last year, today was ordered deported to his native Argentina.

District Director H. R. Landon of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service announced:

"This order is final and a deportation warrant will be issued forthwith.

"However, the order is appealable within 15 days to the Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington, D. C., in which event deportation will be stayed pending disposition of such appeal."

Landon's announcement, handed to newsmen and containing the result of hearings here and in New York, said:

"Special Inquiry Officer Joseph A. Dummel found that Haymes became an alien ineligible to citizenship because of having filed an application for exemption as a neutral alien and such exemption having been granted and that, upon his return to the continental

All Police Cooperate In Big Job

J. Edgar Hoover Tells Important Things on Recognizing Devices and Urges Caution

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The Justice Department today made public a circular sent to all U. S. law enforcement officials by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, requesting an alert against the possible smuggling of small atomic weapons into this country by enemy agents. The department said the letter was distributed in January. It followed a Dec. 15 statement by President Eisenhower in which he asked police officers at every level to report promptly to the FBI all information relating to violations of the Atomic Energy Act.

At the White House, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the Hoover letter was approved last December "by the National Security Council, which also means the President.

Eisenhower is chairman of the council.

To assist local police in recognizing atomic weapons which might be carried by an individual, Hoover gave a description of what such devices are likely to look like. He conceded at the same time that it would be impossible to describe exactly what form a foreign atomic bombs might take.

Cautions on Handling

The FBI director emphasized that individual law enforcement officers should not attempt to dismantle such devices after discovering them. He noted that the National Security Council has set up Explosive Ordnance Disposal Units operating under the army to disarm any illicit atomic weapon coming to the attention of police.

Hoover said in his notice that it was necessary that police generally have some basic information on the possible designs of smuggled atomic weapons. For this purpose, he explained:

"Atomic explosions result when (1) certain amounts of fissionable material in two pieces or more are brought quickly together to form one piece of such material and when (2) a certain amount of fissionable material is quickly made more dense by squeezing it together. The important thing about each of these methods is that masses of fissionable material must be placed into rapid motion. We know that high explosives are capable of giving any material such necessary rapid motion.

Explains Types

"In the first case we would look for some kind of a gun barrel device using high explosive to blow one piece of fissionable material from the breech end of the gun down through the barrel into another piece of fissionable material firmly anchored in the muzzle end of the gun.

In the second case, we would look for a device using high explosives to squeeze fissionable material."

He noted that the latter device would involve the principle of "implosion"—a bursting inward as contrasted with the bursting outward of an explosion.

Hoover said that when scientists worked on the first atom bomb they achieved implosion by build-

To End Long Service This Month

One of the older small post offices in the county is due to close March 31, according to recent government order. Mrs. Hyman Gershuny, who has been acting postmaster since last December at Creek Locks, stands by the ancient box equipment, which she says will be auctioned. (Freeman photo)

Creek Locks Post Office To Close; Is One of Oldest

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS

Those daily hellos at the Creek Locks post office will be said elsewhere and probably less frequently after March 31.

That's because the little post office which has moved about a bit since it started near the old Delaware & Hudson canal, as near as can be determined, in Civil War days, has been ordered to close by that date.

Believed to be one of the oldest in Ulster county's smaller communities, the office started in business for Uncle Sam when life was really stirring along the old canal—which wended through the Rondout Valley between here and Honesdale, Pa.

Mrs. Richard Sagar of Creek Locks, who assisted in gathering information on the post office, said it appears to have started in 1861 with Jacob Van Wagenen, father of Dr. Harry Van Wagenen, of Kingston, as the first postmaster.

Those were the days when letters might arrive in Creek Locks from such interesting points as Butler's Knock, which was Lock 57 on the water route. Or perhaps some mail might come from Widow Kelly, which was Lock 62 and Squire Van Tuyl's, which was Lock 64.

Creek Locks, which was appropriately named, had locks 3 and 4, the first two being at Eddyville. The canal had 110 of them.

Mrs. Hyman Gershuny, acting postmaster of the little post office, recently announced its scheduled

FBI Warns Against Small Atomic Weapons

Washington, March 23 (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has warned the nation's police to be on guard against possible attempts to smuggle small atomic weapons into the United States.

Hoover, it was learned last night, sent a letter to all police officers early this year, giving them an idea of what to look for.

The letter, reportedly sent out with President Eisenhower's approval, contained descriptions of two atomic devices coupled with advice against amateur attempts to dismantle any suspicious device, the officers were urged to notify the nearest FBI office, if they should discover such an object.

Hoover was understood to have suggested that police pay special attention to any article that is very heavy for its size.

The U. S. Customs Service, which checks luggage of travelers at ports of entry, already is under orders to watch carefully for possible atomic weapons.

One Out of Six Korean Veterans Trains Under Bill

One out of every six post-Korean veterans in America today has trained at some time or other under the 18-month-old Korean GI Bill, F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration Contact Office, 286 Fair street, reports.

The 377,000 Korea GI Bill trainees enrolled for courses, ranging from accelerated grade school work to post-graduate college study.

More than half of the trainees, or nearly 192,000, attended colleges and universities. Another 30 per cent, or about 117,000, enrolled in schools below the college level. Trade and vocational courses were the most popular types of below-college schooling, accounting for nearly 69,000 veterans. More than 23,000 enrolled in grade schools and high schools; 19,000 selected business schools, and 5,700 took their training in correspondence schools. Veterans who trained on-the-job under the Korea GI Bill numbered nearly 56,000. Nearly two-thirds of these were in apprenticeship programs. The rest were taking other forms of job training.

Approximately 13,000 veterans were enrolled in institutional on-farm training programs—a combination of classroom study with actual experience on the farm.

New applications for training from post-Korea veterans are coming into VA Regional Offices at the rate of 35,000 a month, Sheehan said.

The nation's population of veterans with service since the outbreak of Korean fighting now stands at nearly 2,500,000.

Elderly Bride Is Willing to Let Law Handle Husband

New York, March 23 (AP)—An elderly bride has changed her mind again and now wants to let the law decide the fate of her husband who disappeared with her $243,500 after one day of marriage.

He thus faces a hearing today before a U. S. commissioner on charges of transporting stolen money and jewels from Virginia.

When Percy William Herman, 49, surrendered here March 15, his bride, Mrs. Dyoll Havens Herman, 67, happily announced she wanted to withdraw charges she had filed against him with the FBI in Richmond, Va.

Herman said he had "good reason" for leaving his bride stranded in a Fredericksburg, Va., hotel. He told a story about being pursued by suspected robbers and coming to New York to protect his wife's jewels and money.

FBI Has Additions

Last night his wife reconsidered the situation and announced she would not withdraw the complaint but would cooperate "freely and fully" with authorities. There were "certain facts" that influenced this decision, she said, but did not specify them.

But the FBI had these additions to make to Herman's story:

1. He checked into a New York hotel with another woman on March 8, three days after leaving his bride and four days after their marriage in Palm Beach, Fla.
2. Some of Herman's $59,600 worth of jewels and $211,500 in cash were in a bank locker under the other woman's name.
3. The bankroll was $30,000 short.

GRANDMA WOULD APPROVE—It was probably a combination of spring and 10-cents-a-cup coffee which inspired Bob Hancock of Hancock's Restaurant, in Asheville, N. Snakes Are Called Beneficial to Farms

Ithaca, March 23 (AP)—The lowly snake got a light pat on its scaly back today.

A Cornell University Conservation specialist told a Farm and Home Week audience, of all the creatures found in New York state probably none are more disliked, and with less reason, than the snakes."

James N. Layne added:

"Of the 18 or so kinds of snakes found in this state, only three—the copperhead, the timber rattler and the rare massasauga are poisonous — and the chances of being bitten by any of them are remote.

"A few of our snakes may destroy some bird eggs and young, but some are decidedly beneficial in eating large quantities of harmful insects, slugs and injurious rodents."

The five-day Farm and Home program opened yesterday, and 2,966 persons registered. A total of 5,567 registered on opening day last year. A spokesman attributed the big drop to the fact that the Future Farmers of America attended the first day in 1953. The FFA will arrive Thursday.

Vera West, a College of Agriculture senior from Mamaroneck, last night won the $100 first prize in the annual rice debate stage. Miss West argued against State Development of Niagara and St. Lawrence River Power.

Her partner, Paul Steigler of Ithaca, also an agriculture senior, was second.

Reds Claim Hong Kong

Hong Kong (AP)—The Chinese Communists have issued a map in an atlas which shows Hong Kong as part of China. This is one of the first Red claims on the British crown colony. The map was issued last August but the revised border was noted only recently by the Nationalist news agency, Central News. "Hong Kong and Kowloon are territories lost to us as a result of unequal treaties, and are still occupied by British imperialists as a political, commercial and military base for aggression against the Far East," the atlas says.

Helfand Is Silent On Police Stories In Gambling Ties

New York, March 23 (AP)—Four policemen attached to the Brooklyn morals squad were questioned yesterday before a special rackets grand jury as it opened an investigation of an alleged three-million-dollar-a-year policy ring.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Julius Helfand, in charge of Dist. Atty Edward S. Silver's rackets bureau, had no comment for newsmen after he had questioned the policemen before the Brooklyn jury.

The district attorney's office had said previously that the ring could not have operated without "police connivance." Silver said evidence of such connivance would be presented to the jury.

Raiders from Silver's office seized 26 persons Friday and Saturday on material witness charges in a crackdown on the ring. Another 20 persons were rounded up yesterday as suspected runners and collectors. An additional 65 suspects were reported sought.

Same Jury

The grand jury investigating the policy ring is the some one which aided in smashing the 20-million-dollar-a-year bookmaking empire run by Harry Gross, now in jail, and protected by grafting policemen.

Several members of the grand jury, Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams, Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, Helfand and other officials held a 40-minute conference late yesterday in Leibowitz's chambers.

Adams said later he planned no shakeup of the personnel of the year-old morals squad, which includes 123 men and 8 women.

UNEMPLOYMENT PICTURE

The United States Census Bureau released figures which show that 584,000 people lost their jobs during the month of February. The figures represent an increase of over two million in unemployment since November of last year.

There is a great deal of discussion as to whether the economic situation at this moment can be called a "recession" or whether it is merely a period of adjustment. President Eisenhower has said that he regards March as the critical month and that if unemployment is not checked this month he intends to use the powers of his office to do something about it.

Certain adjustments in the economy are necessary and inevitable from time to time in any free enterprise system. Despite the fact that these adjustments mean unemployment and trouble for part of the population there has been no system ever devised which offers more hope for economic security than ours. This does not mean, however, that we must ignore the plight of those who are thrown out of work.

Continued unemployment for any large segment of our population breeds more unemployment and there is a point where unemployment means depression, a state which is hard to throw out and which saps the vitality and productivity of the people.

President Eisenhower is wise in his decision to keep a sharp eye on the economic picture and to be prepared to act if the situation shows any sign of getting out of hand.

Shaving is one of the oldest of morning nuisances for the sleepy male struggling to wake up and get to work. But with slick blades, buzzing electric shavers and fancy soaps, creams and lotions he is still a long way beyond his forefathers. Prehistoric man started off with sharp clam shells.

WORD TRAPS

It seems likely that language will always remain a barrier to international understanding. If misinterpretations of words occur among people who speak the same language, how can people with different languages ever understand each other?

The word "ties" threatened to muddy relationships between the United States and Pakistan recently. A Pakistani newspaper recently launched an excited attack against the United States for sending "loud neckties" to his country under an official aid pact. Belatedly he came to learn that the ties had nothing to do with neckwear but were of the railroad variety.

It seems that in the British world, railroad crossties are known as sleepers. Hence, the editor's mistake and resulting tempest in a teapot.

However, words also produce misunderstandings in areas of the world with the same language background. A South Indian newspaper not long ago published the news that 200,000 sleeping persons were swept down a flooded river in Kashmir. The paper had to eat its words when it learned that the "sleepers" which provoked this sensational news story were railroad crossties, not sleeping persons.

Carelessly-used words can be as dangerous as they are humorous. Certainly, though, in a world where language barriers are so numerous, words should be used more carefully. The international tensions prevailing today cannot be blamed entirely on linguistics or semantics. But a careful use of words could avoid much misunderstanding.

Changeable weather of the season brings into prominence again one of man's often forgotten appendages—the nose. It clogs, runs and gets in the way. Yet a few weeks hence the spell of spring gives it special meaning.

ITALY STEPS ASIDE

Italy has made an encouraging gesture for international unity. In the strategy for the defense of Western Europe, now under discussion, a minor question was which nation should be responsible for the Mediterranean region that includes the Strait of Sicily and the island of Pantelleria, which during the war was an Italian fortress that took much bombing to destroy. As this region lies close to the Italian mainland, the Italians naturally feel that they should have charge of its defense. The British Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, who headed the British commandos in the war, prefers to have this area under French military control. Italy has now agreed to it.

The Italians deserve credit for waiving their national pride and accepting a plan which the Allies' naval experts think will make for more efficient defense.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE FRIENDLY SPIRIT

When one goes to Washington for a day or two, there is no telling what might happen. You might get into a conversation on some momentous question and suddenly find yourself a saga, advising on how to solve every human question, or you might horseplay about men and events only to discover that someone keeps a running diary of men and events, including quotations of the latest gents room story.

So I went to the annual dinner of The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and listened to two witty addresses, light, delightful to the ear, sagacious in overtones, such as one rarely hears in these days of ponderous, monitored speeches, often written by press agents who provide their clients with deadly dull ditch water.

The most witty speech was made by Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was inducted as an honorary member of this Irish fraternity, he being the third President of the United States to be so honored, the others having been George Washington and Harry S. Truman. Why the Irish missed all the others, I do not know. They are a proud race.

I could not help thinking on this occasion that the President is really a great wit and that it is a pity that he does not use some of his artistry in words in the speeches he delivers to the American people. His public addresses seem heavy-laden; yet in the few words that he spoke at the St. Patrick's Day dinner, without a note, taking advantage of immediate incidents, his wit was in the best tradition of such men as Josh Billings, Mark Twain, or that most brilliant of American after-dinner speakers, Simeon Ford, who is now forgotten as happens to most men. Wit is disappearing from our way of life and its place is being taken by the wisecrack.

The speaker of the evening was not the President, who was expected to say little more than "Thank Yau," when they placed upon him a green ribbon with a golden medallion at the end. For the speech of the evening, the Irish had selected a McCarthy, not from Wisconsin but from Minnesota. There was an Irish tone about this man as he spoke poetically of his race of which the Irish never forget, be they of South or North. But what interested me most was something he read from an Irish Monk, Cadoc, which struck me as particularly befitting these times. This is what Representative Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota read:

"I hate the judge who loves money, the scribe who loves war, chiefs who do not guard their subjects, and nations without vigor

"I hate houses without dwellers, lands untilled, fields that bear no harvest, landless clans, the agents of error, the oppressors of truth

"I hate him who respects not father and mother, those who make strife among friends, a country in anarchy, lost learning, and uncertain boundaries.

"I hate journeys without safety, families without virtue, lawsuits without reason, ambushes and treasons, falsehood in council, justice unhonored

"I hate a man without a trade, a laborer without freedom, a society without teachers, a false witness before a judge, the undeserving exalted to high position.

"Fables in place of teaching, knowledge without inspiration, sermons without eloquence, and a man without a conscience."

This inverted song of hatred is an Irish way of saying what one loves, which is justice and order and a decent way of living. Not that the Irish have any monopoly on virtue, but it is a queer thing about them that they do possess a dignity of person, sober or otherwise, which in these days of bad manners has a virtue all its own.

Well, there it is. I was invited to this St. Patrick's Day dinner by a Scotsman who is undoubtedly a Presbyterian, although I would not ask him so private a question.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

LENGTHENING OF LIFE

Just a few years ago the commonest conversation was about various operations, the good and poor results of these operations. Today the commonest discussion is about blood pressure, mostly because there are so many cases of heart strokes (coronary thrombosis) following high blood pressure, the high blood pressure often being unknown to the family or patient. And now that the life span has been extended by many years, it is but natural that more cases of heart stroke are occurring.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, in an up-to-date editorial in Postgraduate Medicine, states that the name of Dr. Arthur M. Master is known to thousands of physicians all over the world for his development of new standards for evaluating measurements of blood pressure in human beings.

"Estimation of blood pressure is among the most frequent of all medical procedures and the correct interpretations of readings is of utmost importance."

Recently, thanks to Dr. Master and other research workers, new standards of measurements have been established which consider 150 systolic and 90 diastolic as being within the normal limits. This is a little higher measurement than was formerly considered normal but these measurements were established by actual working tests for all adults over 40 years of age.

"Extensive recordings were made of the blood pressure of over 74,000 workers up to the age of 64 and the upper limit was found to be higher for each age group than the figure previously used.

What about the group aged over 65? Now that the life expectancy is becoming longer than ever before, many more people now reach advanced years than did so formerly. Many millions of people in our population, perhaps in excess of 12 million, are now 65 years and older.

Dr. Fishbein states further that now Dr. Master and Dr. Harry Jeffe, representing the New York Heart Association and Mount Sinai Hospital of New York, and Herbert H. Marks for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, have undertaken a new study to find out the normal range of blood pressure for persons over 65, and the relationship between blood pressure and weight to surface area and height. The difficulty here is that employers are not using as many men of this age as formerly. One-half of the industries routinely discharge workers of certain age limits. Physicians everywhere will be interested in watching the results of this investigation so vital to the health and life expectancy of our old people.

How Is Your Blood Pressure?

Is it high? Is it low? Do you know what precautions to take in either case? Read Dr. Barton's helpful booklet entitled "How Is Your Blood Pressure?" which may be obained by sending 25 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. "That Makes Two of Us on the Ball"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — All the congressional uproar over the row between Wisconsin Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens can be traced to a single cause. This is the method by which Subcommittee Chairman McCarthy conducts his investigations and hearings.

McCarthy's methods have been the basis for most of the criticism leveled against him. This criticism is not new and it is nothing peculiar to Senator McCarthy.

The same kind of criticism was made of Rep. Martin Dies of Texas, 20 years ago, when he was chairman of the House Committee on un-American Activities.

Few can object to the prime objective of both committees—ferreting out Communists and exposing the Communist conspiracy.

It is only when the investigating committees overstep the bounds of fair play and established judicial procedure under constitutional guarantees that they get in trouble.

To use congressional immunity from suit for libel or slander to insult and berate witnesses, as in the case of Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, rubs many Americans the wrong way. To use congressional committee powers, as alleged, to threaten the secretary of the army or to gain special privileges for the army's buck private Gerard David Schine sits no better.

Whatever degree of Senator McCarthy's following has been lost in recent weeks may be due to these causes.

Remedy Lies in Adoption of Rules

The amazing thing about all this is that it is so unnecessary and so easily remedied. By the mere adoption of a set of rules of procedure for all congressional committees, embodying a code of ethical conduct, all charges of conducting inquistions and witch hunts could be banished.

The Republican policy committee of the Senate under Michigan's Homer Ferguson has recently been toying with this idea. It has drawn up a suggested set of six rules for uniform procedure of Senate committees.

But it is made clear that no attempt will be made to force this code of fair play on any Senate committee.

This leaves Senator McCarthy completely free to do as he pleases in the future. It carries on the old congressional tradition that every one of its committees is a little world unto itself. And to each committee chairman is given powers close to those of a petty monarch.

Fortunately, most congressional committees and chairmen have not abused these privileges. In some cases, the committees themselves have gone so far as to limit their own powers.

In this respect, Chairman McCarthy's investigating subcommittee might well copy a leaf out of the book of the House Armed Services Investigating Subcommittee.

Four years ago, under the chairmanship of Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D., La.) it adopted its own rules of procedure. Congressman Hebert had served previously on the House un-American Committee. He knew what charges could be thrown against an investigative group.

So he and his committee set up their own code of conduct. And they proceeded to put on, within their rules, a whing-ding of a probe of waste in Department of Defense procurement.

Rules Available Just for the Asking

In the 83rd Congress, under the chairmanship of Rep. William E. Hess (R-Ohio), these rules have been continued. What's more they have been printed in pamphlet form for the committee's own guidance and for imitation by any other interested groups.

In brief, the Hess subcommittee rules cover these main points:

A majority of the nine-member committee constitutes a quorum and a quorum must be present for all meetings and votes. Two-member subcommittees are authorized but one-member hearings are banned. Subpoenas for evidence and witnesses shall be issued by the chairman.

Witnesses shall be informed of their rights. Witnesses may be accompanied by counsel. The judicial rules of evidence shall be followed. If hearings might result in unwarranted injury to the witness, executive sessions may be held.

No part of the testimony in executive sessions shall be made public without the concurrence of committee members present.

Adoption by the McCarthy committee of a simple set of rules like this might easily save it much of the grief that it is now encountering, and get its investigation back on the track again.

Those Making Martyr of Senator McCarthy May Turn Him Into Hero as La Follette

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 23—Maybe those who are ganging up on Senator McCarthy nowadays in Washington and elsehere will succeed in making him a martyr—and then a hero. This is, of course, far from their intent. But their methods and tactics could bring about that result just as happened in the case of another Wisconsin senator more than three decades ago.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, Sr., progressive Republican, was denounced from one end of the country to the other because he didn't believe in the issues on which World War 1 were being fought. His speeches during the war were so unpopular with the people generally that both Republican Houses of the Wisconsin Legislature, by majority vote, and the Republican Central Committee of that state petitioned the United States Senate to expel him. The resolution was introduced, referred to a committee and was never acted upon by the Senate. Senator La Follette was anti-war, but was regarded by some people as actually obstructing the war effort itself.

In 1920, however, just after the war ended, Bob La Follette was reelected senator from Wisconsin by the biggest majority he ever got, and in 1924 polled nearly 5,000,000 votes as a third-party candidate for the presidency. Calvin Coolidge was elected, but he won the electoral votes of 12 states west of the Mississippi by less than a majority of the votes in those states.

When President Truman went to Wisconsin in recent years to campaign, he extolled Bob La Follette as a great hero and said he hoped that Wisconsin would breed more La Follettes. Thus are martyrs converted into heroes as time passes.

Now the analogy extends only to the fact that Senator McCarthy is being denounced by opponents in just as intemperate a vein as was Senator La Follette, but it merely won the latter more and more supporters.

History may repeat itself. For the opponents of Senator McCarthy are overreaching themselves and causing more bitter cleavages than they realize. The other day a prominent Protestant clergyman in a nationally known church in New York city attacked the Catholic Church as giving birth to such men as McCarthy. This regrettable assault on the Catholic religion was promptly repudiated editorially by two very important newspapers which have been bitterly opposed to Senator McCarthy but who deplored the raising of this issue.

Some of the big Protestant church organizations have lately been getting into the fray with resolutions that border closely on church intervention in politics. The lack of restraint on the part of the critics is a cause for concern.

Senator McCarthy's views or his attitude in committee work can hardly be made the basis of his expulsion from the Senate despite the fact that he has incurred enmities by his vigorous fight against Communists in the government. Some of the critics are indulging in the same smear tactics and the same intolerance which they attribute to congressional committee hearings. Examining some of the expressions of opinion one reads or hears against McCarthy, it might appear that senators can be thrown out of the Senate just because they utter unpopular views. It seems to be forgotten that anything a senator chooses to say at a committee hearing, he can also say in a speech on the floor of the Senate, and there is no rule by which he can be punished for freedom of expression.

Not so many years ago Senator Heflin of Alabama, Democrat, got up in the Senate nearly every week for a long time and repeatedly made bitter attacks on the Catholic church as an institution. His words were unwise but nobody rose to say he should be expelled from the Senate or disavowed by his party. There have been many excesses on the part of members of Congress in the past, particularly by investigating committees, but when the advantage politically was on the other side, the so-called "Liberals" did not inveigh against "methods" or demand "fair codes of procedure." A case in point now is the fact that, despite charges of fraud in the New Mexico election, Senator Chavez, Democrat, today is permitted to vote in the Senate. Yet Senator McCarthy is supposed to absent himself from a committee of which he is chairman.

When a man as pugnacious as Senator McCarthy is attacked, naturally he will fight back. For many weeks now the anti-McCarthy folks have been goading the President to have a knock-down, drag-out fight with the Wisconsin senator. Mr. Eisenhower didn't have to add fuel to the flames at every press conference in recent weeks, but he has hardly failed each time to fall for the efforts of the "left wing" to get him into the headlines on the anti-McCarthy side. Naturally the Wisconsin senator isn't going to stand for a "purge" any more than Democratic senators have in the past when Democratic presidents have gone even further in trying to read them out of the party.

The Democrats have played the game shrewdly. They knew that the Truman holdovers in Washington and a sympathetic press corps would keep the McCarthy issue alive and now the anti-McCarthy partisans are rejoicing. The Democrats think they have damaged the Republican party and made it easier for the Democrats to return to power. The anti-McCarthy Republicans think they have overnight, by merely denouncing McCarthy, driven away from him many millions of Republicans who have been his followers. But it must not be forgotten that there are millions of Democratic voters who will cross over to the Republican party to help elect candidates for Congress who are determined to root out Communists in the government and to expose those who protected them in the past. The Wisconsin senator in the 1952 primaries had an overwhelming majority, and much of it came from Democrats who voted for McCarthy in the Republican primaries. He certainly will draw big crowds in the coming campaign and he can thank his critics for the build-up they have given him.

In tenement windows winter quilts are hung out to be aired. Housewives lean out and call to each other, "My, is my house a mess? How do you like the weather?"

A querulous treble sounds in the voices of children. They complain of strange pains and are comforted when their elders tell them, "Oh, they're just growing pains. You're getting bigger every day." Stove Oil Runs Cars

Portland (AP)—The mystery of the missing stove oil in a Portland residential neighborhood has been solved. His son, who is a hot rod enthusiast, along with half a dozen others in the neighborhood, complained that his car needed a push to get it started. The engine was sluggish. Soon the parent noticed other jalopies were having similar troubles. He asked the owners if the engine trouble could have any connection with the frequent loss of stove oil from the family tank. It had. Gasoline costs around 30 cents a gallon, stove oil 16½. Tanks in the cars to hold the oil and valves permit them to start with regular gasoline. Then when the manifold is hot, they switch to stove oil. And the cars function satisfactorily. Except that ultimately the engines gum up.

Q—What is the origin of the expression "Behind the eight ball"?

A—It had its origin in the game of pool called eight ball, the object of which is to pocket the other balls without first striking the eight ball. So, if a player's cue ball is blocked by the eight ball his position is bad—he is literally "behind the eight ball."

UNEMPLOYMENT PICTURE

The United States Census Bureau released figures which show that 584,000 people lost their jobs during the month of February. The figures represent an increase of over two million in unemployment since November of last year.

There is a great deal of discussion as to whether the economic situation at this moment can be called a "recession" or whether it is merely a period of adjustment. President Eisenhower has said that he regards March as the critical month and that if unemployment is not checked this month he intends to use the powers of his office to do something about it.

Certain adjustments in the economy are necessary and inevitable from time to time in any free enterprise system. Despite the fact that these adjustments mean unemployment and trouble for part of the population there has been no system ever devised which offers more hope for economic security than ours. This does not mean, however, that we must ignore the plight of those who are thrown out of work.

Continued unemployment for any large segment of our population breeds more unemployment and there is a point where unemployment means depression, a state which is hard to throw out and which saps the vitality and productivity of the people.

President Eisenhower is wise in his decision to keep a sharp eye on the economic picture and to be prepared to act if the situation shows any sign of getting out of hand.

Shaving is one of the oldest of morning nuisances for the sleepy male struggling to wake up and get to work. But with slick blades, buzzing electric shavers and fancy soaps, creams and lotions he is still a long way beyond his forefathers. Prehistoric man started off with sharp clam shells.

WORD TRAPS

It seems likely that language will always remain a barrier to international understanding. If misinterpretations of words occur among people who speak the same language, how can people with different languages ever understand each other?

The word "ties" threatened to muddy relationships between the United States and Pakistan recently. A Pakistani newspaper recently launched an excited attack against the United States for sending "loud neckties" to his country under an official aid pact. Belatedly he came to learn that the ties had nothing to do with neckwear but were of the railroad variety.

It seems that in the British world, railroad crossties are known as sleepers. Hence, the editor's mistake and resulting tempest in a teapot.

However, words also produce misunderstandings in areas of the world with the same language background. A South Indian newspaper not long ago published the news that 200,000 sleeping persons were swept down a flooded river in Kashmir. The paper had to eat its words when it learned that the "sleepers" which provoked this sensational news story were railroad crossties, not sleeping persons.

Carelessly-used words can be as dangerous as they are humorous. Certainly, though, in a world where language barriers are so numerous, words should be used more carefully. The international tensions prevailing today cannot be blamed entirely on linguistics or semantics. But a careful use of words could avoid much misunderstanding.

Changeable weather of the season brings into prominence again one of man's often forgotten appendages—the nose. It clogs, runs and gets in the way. Yet a few weeks hence the spell of spring gives it special meaning.

ITALY STEPS ASIDE

Italy has made an encouraging gesture for international unity. In the strategy for the defense of Western Europe, now under discussion, a minor question was which nation should be responsible for the Mediterranean region that includes the Strait of Sicily and the island of Pantelleria, which during the war was an Italian fortress that took much bombing to destroy. As this region lies close to the Italian mainland, the Italians naturally feel that they should have charge of its defense. The British Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, who headed the British commandos in the war, prefers to have this area under French military control. Italy has now agreed to it.

The Italians deserve credit for waiving their national pride and accepting a plan which the Allies' naval experts think will make for more efficient defense.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE FRIENDLY SPIRIT

When one goes to Washington for a day or two, there is no telling what might happen. You might get into a conversation on some momentous question and suddenly find yourself a saga, advising on how to solve every human question, or you might horseplay about men and events only to discover that someone keeps a running diary of men and events, including quotations of the latest gents room story.

So I went to the annual dinner of The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and listened to two witty addresses, light, delightful to the ear, sagacious in overtones, such as one rarely hears in these days of ponderous, monitored speeches, often written by press agents who provide their clients with deadly dull ditch water.

The most witty speech was made by Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was inducted as an honorary member of this Irish fraternity, he being the third President of the United States to be so honored, the others having been George Washington and Harry S. Truman. Why the Irish missed all the others, I do not know. They are a proud race.

I could not help thinking on this occasion that the President is really a great wit and that it is a pity that he does not use some of his artistry in words in the speeches he delivers to the American people. His public addresses seem heavy-laden; yet in the few words that he spoke at the St. Patrick's Day dinner, without a note, taking advantage of immediate incidents, his wit was in the best tradition of such men as Josh Billings, Mark Twain, or that most brilliant of American after-dinner speakers, Simeon Ford, who is now forgotten as happens to most men. Wit is disappearing from our way of life and its place is being taken by the wisecrack.

The speaker of the evening was not the President, who was expected to say little more than "Thank Yau," when they placed upon him a green ribbon with a golden medallion at the end. For the speech of the evening, the Irish had selected a McCarthy, not from Wisconsin but from Minnesota. There was an Irish tone about this man as he spoke poetically of his race of which the Irish never forget, be they of South or North. But what interested me most was something he read from an Irish Monk, Cadoc, which struck me as particularly befitting these times. This is what Representative Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota read:

"I hate the judge who loves money, the scribe who loves war, chiefs who do not guard their subjects, and nations without vigor

"I hate houses without dwellers, lands untilled, fields that bear no harvest, landless clans, the agents of error, the oppressors of truth

"I hate him who respects not father and mother, those who make strife among friends, a country in anarchy, lost learning, and uncertain boundaries.

"I hate journeys without safety, families without virtue, lawsuits without reason, ambushes and treasons, falsehood in council, justice unhonored

"I hate a man without a trade, a laborer without freedom, a society without teachers, a false witness before a judge, the undeserving exalted to high position.

"Fables in place of teaching, knowledge without inspiration, sermons without eloquence, and a man without a conscience."

This inverted song of hatred is an Irish way of saying what one loves, which is justice and order and a decent way of living. Not that the Irish have any monopoly on virtue, but it is a queer thing about them that they do possess a dignity of person, sober or otherwise, which in these days of bad manners has a virtue all its own.

Well, there it is. I was invited to this St. Patrick's Day dinner by a Scotsman who is undoubtedly a Presbyterian, although I would not ask him so private a question.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

LENGTHENING OF LIFE

Just a few years ago the commonest conversation was about various operations, the good and poor results of these operations. Today the commonest discussion is about blood pressure, mostly because there are so many cases of heart strokes (coronary thrombosis) following high blood pressure, the high blood pressure often being unknown to the family or patient. And now that the life span has been extended by many years, it is but natural that more cases of heart stroke are occurring.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, in an up-to-date editorial in Postgraduate Medicine, states that the name of Dr. Arthur M. Master is known to thousands of physicians all over the world for his development of new standards for evaluating measurements of blood pressure in human beings.

"Estimation of blood pressure is among the most frequent of all medical procedures and the correct interpretations of readings is of utmost importance."

Recently, thanks to Dr. Master and other research workers, new standards of measurements have been established which consider 150 systolic and 90 diastolic as being within the normal limits. This is a little higher measurement than was formerly considered normal but these measurements were established by actual working tests for all adults over 40 years of age.

"Extensive recordings were made of the blood pressure of over 74,000 workers up to the age of 64 and the upper limit was found to be higher for each age group than the figure previously used.

What about the group aged over 65? Now that the life expectancy is becoming longer than ever before, many more people now reach advanced years than did so formerly. Many millions of people in our population, perhaps in excess of 12 million, are now 65 years and older.

Dr. Fishbein states further that now Dr. Master and Dr. Harry Jeffe, representing the New York Heart Association and Mount Sinai Hospital of New York, and Herbert H. Marks for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, have undertaken a new study to find out the normal range of blood pressure for persons over 65, and the relationship between blood pressure and weight to surface area and height. The difficulty here is that employers are not using as many men of this age as formerly. One-half of the industries routinely discharge workers of certain age limits. Physicians everywhere will be interested in watching the results of this investigation so vital to the health and life expectancy of our old people.

How Is Your Blood Pressure?

Is it high? Is it low? Do you know what precautions to take in either case? "That Makes Two of Us on the Ball"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — All the congressional uproar over the row between Wisconsin Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens can be traced to a single cause. This is the method by which Subcommittee Chairman McCarthy conducts his investigations and hearings.

McCarthy's methods have been the basis for most of the criticism leveled against him. This criticism is not new and it is nothing peculiar to Senator McCarthy.

The same kind of criticism was made of Rep. Martin Dies of Texas, 20 years ago, when he was chairman of the House Committee on un-American Activities.

Few can object to the prime objective of both committees—ferreting out Communists and exposing the Communist conspiracy.

It is only when the investigating committees overstep the bounds of fair play and established judicial procedure under constitutional guarantees that they get in trouble.

To use congressional immunity from suit for libel or slander to insult and berate witnesses, as in the case of Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, rubs many Americans the wrong way. To use congressional committee powers, as alleged, to threaten the secretary of the army or to gain special privileges for the army's buck private Gerard David Schine sits no better.

Whatever degree of Senator McCarthy's following has been lost in recent weeks may be due to these causes.

Remedy Lies in Adoption of Rules

The amazing thing about all this is that it is so unnecessary and so easily remedied. By the mere adoption of a set of rules of procedure for all congressional committees, embodying a code of ethical conduct, all charges of conducting inquistions and witch hunts could be banished.

The Republican policy committee of the Senate under Michigan's Homer Ferguson has recently been toying with this idea. It has drawn up a suggested set of six rules for uniform procedure of Senate committees.

But it is made clear that no attempt will be made to force this code of fair play on any Senate committee.

This leaves Senator McCarthy completely free to do as he pleases in the future. It carries on the old congressional tradition that every one of its committees is a little world unto itself. And to each committee chairman is given powers close to those of a petty monarch.

Fortunately, most congressional committees and chairmen have not abused these privileges. In some cases, the committees themselves have gone so far as to limit their own powers.

In this respect, Chairman McCarthy's investigating subcommittee might well copy a leaf out of the book of the House Armed Services Investigating Subcommittee.

Four years ago, under the chairmanship of Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D., La.) it adopted its own rules of procedure. Congressman Hebert had served previously on the House un-American Committee. He knew what charges could be thrown against an investigative group.

So he and his committee set up their own code of conduct. And they proceeded to put on, within their rules, a whing-ding of a probe of waste in Department of Defense procurement.

Rules Available Just for the Asking

In the 83rd Congress, under the chairmanship of Rep. William E. Hess (R-Ohio), these rules have been continued. What's more they have been printed in pamphlet form for the committee's own guidance and for imitation by any other interested groups.

In brief, the Hess subcommittee rules cover these main points:

A majority of the nine-member committee constitutes a quorum and a quorum must be present for all meetings and votes. Two-member subcommittees are authorized but one-member hearings are banned. Subpoenas for evidence and witnesses shall be issued by the chairman.

Witnesses shall be informed of their rights. Witnesses may be accompanied by counsel. The judicial rules of evidence shall be followed. If hearings might result in unwarranted injury to the witness, executive sessions may be held.

No part of the testimony in executive sessions shall be made public without the concurrence of committee members present.

Adoption by the McCarthy committee of a simple set of rules like this might easily save it much of the grief that it is now encountering, and get its investigation back on the track again.

The Democrats think they have damaged the Republican party and made it easier for the Democrats to return to power. The anti-McCarthy Republicans think they have overnight, by merely denouncing McCarthy, driven away from him many millions of Republicans who have been his followers. But it must not be forgotten that there are millions of Democratic voters who will cross over to the Republican party to help elect candidates for Congress who are determined to root out Communists in the government and to expose those who protected them in the past. The Wisconsin senator in the 1952 primaries had an overwhelming majority, and much of it came from Democrats who voted for McCarthy in the Republican primaries. He certainly will draw big crowds in the coming campaign and he can thank his critics for the build-up they have given him.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York (AP) — Don't know what's wrong with everybody? Could it be spring?

You take the dog for a walk, and he turns around and bites at the leash.

The pigeons start jaywalking in the streets, doing love rumbas with each other and thumbing their wings to their beaks at taxicabs.

A knife-edged wind blows the last clinker of winter in your eye, and while you are grumpily pawing it out a warm sun pats you on the shoulder and says, "there, there. Feel better?"

Everybody seems sleepy and absent minded. At the office the boss tells the hired hand to do something, and the hired hand says, "what did you say?" and the boss nods for a moment and says, "when?"

Happens All Over

High in the skyscrapers the swivel chair jockeys muse over what would happen if they threw a spitball at their secretary. They have a secret yearning to open the window and sail paper airplanes down on the heads of strangers.

The cop on the beat plods along and suddenly finds himself dreaming of the days when he used to go barefoot. He looks down at his shoes, as if he had half a mind to pull them off.

In tenement windows winter quilts are hung out to be aired. Housewives lean out and call to each other, "My, is my house a mess? How do you like the weather?"

A querulous treble sounds in the voices of children. They complain of strange pains and are comforted when their elders tell them, "Oh, they're just growing pains. You're getting bigger every day." One minute a child stands in a dopey-eyed trance, as though he had a head full of adenoids. The next minute he is racing up the street like a maddened colt, running for no other reason except there is something stirring within him that won't let him keep still.

Beanshopters in View

Little boys get out their beanshooters and set out to ambush the first robin, which annoys the robin as he is busy with housekeeping problems and has no time for little boys. Little girls get out forgotten dolls and begin to croon to them.

Rheumatic twinges slowly flee the bones of old folks, and they lose the envy of better-off neighbors who spent the winter in Florida. "Pneumonia weather," they say wisely, when the first rains turn the landscape sodden.

In the suburbs a husband opens his front door to get the morning paper and sees two baby rabbits scampering across the lawn. He grins, steps out to look at the lawn and growls, "Oh, no, not crabgrass already!"

In a nearby pond papa frog and mama frog are conducting an amphibious romance. Soon the pond will be full of little tadpoles, all anxious, for some unknown reason, to grow up and be big frogs and boss of the puddle.

In the heart of every tree and bush a whisper grows down to the roots and out to each branch. Suddenly the sleepy buds begin to break open like popcorn, and the brown woods swim in a green mist, a deepening surf of leaves.

Nature Busts Out

Everything in nature all at once is busting its buttons, trying to grow as tall as the sun. At night the moon and stars seem nearer and brighter, as if a celestial housewife had newly dipped them in silver polish.

Life has a dreamy quality for the race of man. The bank teller ripples a stack of $100 bills in his hands and wonders what it is like in Tahiti. The blood is a crying bugle in the veins, and the stern voice of duty is drowned out by a big fat Yaw-w-w-w-w-wn.

Work is for horses and tractors. A man feels like peeling off his past and going for a swim in coral seas far away . . . far, far away . . . with Miss Jones, the file clerk. Or maybe her grandmother.

Don't know what's wrong with everybody. But if it's spring fever, doc, don't give us any wonder drug to cure it. It's a wonderful disease, this lotus virus, and the best medicine of the year.

Stove Oil Runs Cars

Portland (AP)—The mystery of the missing stove oil in a Portland residential neighborhood has been solved. His son, who is a hot rod enthusiast, along with half a dozen others in the neighborhood, complained that his car needed a push to get it started. The engine was sluggish. Soon the parent noticed other jalopies were having similar troubles. He asked the owners if the engine trouble could have any connection with the frequent loss of stove oil from the family tank. It had. Gasoline costs around 30 cents a gallon, stove oil 16½. Tanks in the cars to hold the oil and valves permit them to start with regular gasoline. Then when the manifold is hot, they switch to stove oil. And the cars function satisfactorily. Except that ultimately the engines gum up.

Wagner Bids Men Return to Docks Or Lose Forever

New York, March 23 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has made a new appeal to striking longshoremen to return to work at once, warning that their jobs may be wiped out if the port tie-up continues much longer.

"Even now," Wagner said in a radio and television talk to the men over various stations last night, "a number of steamship lines are preparing to move their operations to other ports.

"They're planning this move not only for the duration of this tieup, but permanently. We don't want to lose them, and I'm sure neither do the longshoremen."

Wagner made a 90-minute tour of parts of the Manhattan and Brooklyn waterfronts yesterday afternoon. He said the survey convinced him that "police arrangements are such that no honest longshoreman need fear intimidation, assault or reprisal if he returns to his job."

ILA pickets jeered the mayor at two points as he toured the piers with top police, marine and labor aides.

Thousands Stay Away

Despite reinforced police guards at the piers — ordered after a series of free-for-all fights last week—thousands of non-striking longshoremen continued to stay away from work.

The outlaw strike by members of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) is in its 19th day. The strikers declare they will not resume work until the ILA is certified by the National Labor Relations Board as bargaining agent for the harbor's 24,000 full and part-time longshoremen. ILA leaders say they have tried in vain to get their men back to work.

The ILA and the rival AFL-ILA have been contesting for certification since the AFL set up the AFL-ILA after ousting the ILA last fall for failure to get rid of racketeering elements.

2,800 at Work

There were unofficial estimates that about 2,800 men out of an average full force of 20,000 were working yesterday on the New York and New Jersey docks in the port. This was the largest number reporting for work since the strike started March 5 in defiance of a Federal Court injunction. But there was no big back-to-work movement, as had been hoped for in some quarters.

With only 14 of 159 active piers being worked in the port, cargo continued to pile up. At least 46 ships lay idle at their piers. Diversions of many incoming ships — largely to Baltimore — continued.

The first strike violence since last Thursday was reported. Two ILA members were arrested last night on felonious assault charges. They were accused of breaking an AFL-ILA member's arm in an assault in a Manhattan parking lot.

Fatal Shooting Over TV

Napoleon, Ohio, March 22 (AP)—A family quarrel triggered by an argument over children watching television led to the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old girl last night and wounding of three other persons. A 36-year-old 140-pound truck driver faced a first-degree murder charge after telling a sheriff from his hospital bed "* * * when you kill your own daughter, you don't get away with it." George Wolfe is accused of slaying his 15-year-old daughter, Lucille, wounding his wife and son, George Jr., 10, then shooting himself in a rampage of gunfire at their nearby Deshler home last night. "My wife and I couldn't get along, always quarreling . . . neighbor kids always over watching television and she paid more attention to them than to me or our own kids . . ." Sheriff Fred H. Bartells of Henry county quoted Wolfe as telling him at the hospital today.

Mundt Will Preside

Mundt will preside at the public hearings planned, McCarthy having stepped aside to that extent. The South Dakotan said there might also be discussion today of the touchy matter of ground rules for the inquiry into charges and counter-charges by McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Stevens and their aides.

McCarthy has announced he plans to refrain from voting on any final conclusions the subcommittee may make, but he has said he will insist on the right to cross examine witnesses and will permit army representatives to question him when he testifies.

He said late yesterday he will ask that one of the witnesses be H. Struve Hensel, newly named assistant secretary of defense.

McCarthy said he wants to ask Hensel, former general counsel to the Defense Department, why the army released a report alleging pressures from the subcommittee for special favors for Pvt. G. David Schine. Schine is a rich New Yorker who was an unpaid member of the subcommittee staff until he was drafted last fall.

McCarthy and Roy Cohn, the subcommittee's chief counsel, have accused Secretary Stevens and John G. Adams, an army lawyer, of trying to use Schine "as a hostage" to force the subcommittee to abandon its investigations of the army. McCarthy and Cohn called it "blackmail." Stevens retorted that was "fantastic."

The whole row was an indirect outgrowth of McCarthy's inquiry into what he has termed "coddling of Communists" within the army, and Stevens' assertion that during the probe an army general was abused by McCarthy.

Late yesterday, the army disclosed it has tightened up its lines against possible infiltration by subversives. A new directive, among other steps, requires all commissioned and warrant officers to sign fresh loyalty certificates.

Sen. Hastings Keith (R.-West Bridgewater) the chairman of a special commission which stood 7-3 in favor of fluoridating water after a study last year, presented the committee with a stack of documents which the commission gathered.

He said he went to Kingston and Newburgh, N. Y., and the better teeth of the children using the fluoridated water in Newburgh was "evident to the untrained eye."

In Newburgh, Keith said, he saw the teeth of 205 children and that "78 per cent of them had good teeth."

In Kingston, he said, only 45 per cent of the children he saw had good teeth.

And he said that he checked again in Brockton, the principal city in his district, where he said that the teeth of children were about half good, half bad.

Keith told the committee he checked on the sources of some of the bulletins offered by the anti-fluorine groups, and that he found that one of the organizations also published pamphlets which called aspirin a "poison" and said that cancer may be caused by using aluminum cooking pans.

Another "expert" he said, turned out to be an escapee from a mental hospital.

Kills Sheik

Port Lyautey, Morocco, March 23 (AP) — A terrorist today shot and killed Sheik Boulay Ahmed El Bantouri at the door of his home. The shiek was another in a long list of pro-French Moroccan leaders who have fallen victim in the last seven months to the wave of unrest sweeping the French North Africa Protectorate.

Deadwood along the Esopus creek bed which caught fire Monday afternoon resulted in an alarm from Box 1651, at Murphy street near the viaduct at 3:06 p. m. that 335,000 of these are in Israel alone.

Needs Urgent in Extreme

He termed the needs of these hundreds of thousands of men, women and children "urgent in the extreme" and expressed the hope that public spirited citizens here "would not let them stand alone in this time of crisis and tension when those least able to care for themselves are the first to be victimized with the outbreak of danger and violence."

"As for Isreal itself," Ewig asserted, "the new state is important to all Americans, to every citizen of the free world. Israel's story is the magnificent saga of a land that is nurturing, restoring, cultivating and restablishing in plentiful abundance a way of life that has not flourished in the Middle East since Jews of old were dispersed from it thousands of years ago. And the way of life is the democratic way of life."

Many Are Helped

He pointed out that the United Jewish Appeal, major beneficiary of funds raised through the local drive, has been financing humanitarian programs for 15 years, and since 1939 has saved and aided a total of 2,300,000 men, women and children.

UJA funds support the worldwide program of three constituent agencies—the United Israel Appeal, the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Service for new Americans.

Ewig also called attention to the fine program for both youth and adults undertaken at the Jewish Community Center on Wall street, this city, under the capable supervision of S. Lewis Gaber, executive-director. While a comparatively new venture, the Center has already proved to be a vital force in communal activities worthy of the support of all.

Haymes Ordered

United States from Hawaii on June 7, 1953, he was excludable by law at that time.

"Accordingly, he was found deportable under Section 241A of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952.

"The special inquiry officer also found that Haymes had failed to furnish notification of his address during January, 1953, and did not establish that the failure to do so was reasonable excusable or was not wilful.

"He found that Haymes was therefore subject to deportation under Section 241A (5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952."

The crooner has since married the movie star, whom he visited in Honolulu last June. They are now in New York city.

The decision said further:

". . . The record reflects that Richard Benjamin Haymes, also known as Dick Haymes, is a native and citizen of Argentina and was admitted to the United States for permanent residence at New York on May 28, 1937.

"He has resided in the United States since that time. He has never filed a petition to become a citizen of the United States."

Haymes' attorney, David Marcus, said in a statement: "We have taken an appeal to the Board of Immigration Appeals at Washington."

"This cruel and inhuman banishment," he added, "emanating from inspired proceedings, cannot be permitted to stand against him. He has violated no law, nor has he been convicted of any offense."

ing a large sphere of explosive material, placing the fissionable material they wanted to squeeze at the center of the sphere. Multiple detonators connected electrically were then fired simultaneously to compress the fissionable material at the center.

Heavy Material

The letter called attention to the fact that the fissionable material is either uranium or plutonium, which weigh half again as much as lead. He said 50 pounds of such materials, in spherical shape, would be about the size of a softball. He added:

"Since both of these materials can be coated with other metals or plastics and can be machined into all sorts of shapes, we should be especially alert regarding any article that is extremely heavy for its size. Pieces which might be smuggled would probably be of a size that could be carried on the person.

"The gun barrel tube device will probably be made of steel. The diameter of the bore of such a gun barrel would probably not be less than 2 inches or more than 10 inches.

"It is possible of course that the gun tube and the two breech blocks may be carried as three separate pieces."

Explosion Wrecks Chemical Plant

A huge ball of fire rises above a pall of black smoke as an explosion and fire wrecked the Pelron Corporation, a chemical plant in suburban Lyons, Ill., southwest of Chicago (Mar. 22). One worker was killed and another burned critically. Firemen from eight suburban communities fought baze, which raced through the one-story structure. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. (AP Wirephoto).

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 23 (AP)—The stock market moved narrowly today with the exception of buoyant aircrafts.

The aircrafts displayed gains running to between 1 and 2 points, but the rest of the list mustered mostly fractional changes either way.

A mixed start softened in the morning but a recovery carried into the early afternoon and restored the list's original stability.

Aircrafts were the outstanding feature of yesterday's market, and they captured trading attention at the start today. Curtiss-Wright, yesterday's most active issue up ½, opened today on a block of 21,000 shares up ⅛ at 10, a new high.

Mundt Will Preside

Mundt will preside at the public hearings planned, McCarthy having stepped aside to that extent. The South Dakotan said there might also be discussion today of the touchy matter of ground rules for the inquiry into charges and counter-charges by McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Stevens and their aides.

McCarthy has announced he plans to refrain from voting on any final conclusions the subcommittee may make, but he has said he will insist on the right to cross examine witnesses and will permit army representatives to question him when he testifies.

He said late yesterday he will ask that one of the witnesses be H. Struve Hensel, newly named assistant secretary of defense.

McCarthy said he wants to ask Hensel, former general counsel to the Defense Department, why the army released a report alleging pressures from the subcommittee for special favors for Pvt. G. David Schine. Schine is a rich New Yorker who was an unpaid member of the subcommittee staff until he was drafted last fall.

McCarthy and Roy Cohn, the subcommittee's chief counsel, have accused Secretary Stevens and John G. Adams, an army lawyer, of trying to use Schine "as a hostage" to force the subcommittee to abandon its investigations of the army. McCarthy and Cohn called it "blackmail." Stevens retorted that was "fantastic."

The whole row was an indirect outgrowth of McCarthy's inquiry into what he has termed "coddling of Communists" within the army, and Stevens' assertion that during the probe an army general was abused by McCarthy.

Late yesterday, the army disclosed it has tightened up its lines against possible infiltration by subversives. A new directive, among other steps, requires all commissioned and warrant officers to sign fresh loyalty certificates.

beneficial effects of fluorine which occurs "naturally" and which may be added to water supplies.

Sen. Hastings Keith (R.-West Bridgewater) the chairman of a special commission which stood 7-3 in favor of fluoridating water after a study last year, presented the committee with a stack of documents which the commission gathered.

Evidence is Clear

He said he went to Kingston and Newburgh, N. Y., and the better teeth of the children using the fluoridated water in Newburgh was "evident to the untrained eye."

In Newburgh, Keith said, he saw the teeth of 205 children and that "78 per cent of them had good teeth."

In Kingston, he said, only 45 per cent of the children he saw had good teeth.

And he said that he checked again in Brockton, the principal city in his district, where he said that the teeth of children were about half good, half bad.

Keith told the committee he checked on the sources of some of the bulletins offered by the anti-fluorine groups, and that he found that one of the organizations also published pamphlets which called aspirin a "poison" and said that cancer may be caused by using aluminum cooking pans.

Another "expert" he said, turned out to be an escapee from a mental hospital.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 23 (AP)—The stock market moved narrowly today with the exception of buoyant aircrafts.

The aircrafts displayed gains running to between 1 and 2 points, but the rest of the list mustered mostly fractional changes either way.

A mixed start softened in the morning but a recovery carried into the early afternoon and restored the list's original stability.

Aircrafts were the outstanding feature of yesterday's market, and they captured trading attention at the start today. Curtiss-Wright, yesterday's most active issue up ½, opened today on a block of 21,000 shares up ⅛ at 10, a new high.

Kingston, Jamaica, March 23 (AP)—Britain cranked up an anti-Red drive in a third Caribbean colony today after seizing documents in lightning raids on two left-wing centers in this West Indies island capital. Following crack-downs on alleged pro-Communists in British Guiana and British Honduras on the American continental mainland, authorities yesterday swooped down here on the home of Jamaican labor leader Ferdinand Christofer Smith, assistant secretary of the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU), and on the offices of the left-wing People's Educational Organization. Police said documents they seized in Smith's home identified Communist organizers and fellow travelers in Jamaica.

tion card. Anyone discharged from service who does not have such proof in his possession should contact the local draft board at once.

For the younger men just reaching 18, a reminder was issued that they are required to register within five days after reaching their 18th birthday. If they happen to be away at school, they may register with the Selective Service Board most convenient to them, but should give their home addresses, not their temporary school addresses.

Where to Register

Registration locally may be accomplished at the Selective Service office on Broadway, or at any of the Kingston Paid Fire Department stations — Central on East O'Reilly street, Cornell on Abeel street, or Wiltwyck on Fair street.

Most county residents may register with their own town clerks. Exceptions are in Saugerties, where registration is at the Welfare Department; Ellenville, at the Veterans Service Agency; New Paltz, at Ray Terpenning's Garage.

Registering before the age of 18 and giving a fictitious name are serious offenses, it was also pointed out. This has been tried in several instances by youngsters wanting to use draft cards as evidence of age in order to gain admission to bars.

Killed in Auto Crash

Whitemarch, Md., March 23 (AP)—An auto driver identified from papers as Ronald F. Stahl, 19, of (134th street) Kew Gardens, L. I., was killed yesterday when he crashed into a truck parked off Pulaski Highway. The papers showed he was stationed at the naval air test center at Patuxent, Md. State Trooper Darl Hershberger said the car left the highway about six miles northwest of Baltimore and hit the truck on a parking lot of a diner. The auto was heading south.

Hall: "I recall that in 1950, during the previous administration, when unemployment reached a total of 4,700,000, Democrats were still calling that prosperity. They've changed their tune today, although I believe the latest figures put unemployment at about 3,700,000."

Praises Eisenhower

What will be the issues in the next election?

Hall: "Voters will be concerned with the scorecard on the Eisenhower administration. They'll be pleased, I'm sure, with our progress on the President's forward-looking program."

Mitchell: "The important question is how is the Eisenhower administration running the government and how is it handling, for instance, present economic conditions and other problems. I think Republicans are putting more attention on running for office than running the government."

Will communism be an issue?

Hall: "The people are entitled to the facts."

Mitchell: "The issue won't be communism because I don't know of anybody in favor of it. Everybody's against it and that doesn't make an issue."

Hall and Mitchell both attended Georgetown University Law School but didn't meet each other until they became party chairman. Mitchell said their paths have crossed only three times in their present posts.

In their dinner speeches, Hall and Mitchell both urged greater participation in government by all citizens.

Less Chance of War

New Delhi, India, March 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today he believes there is "less chance of war now than a year or two ago," but he feels a peaceful future is no certainty. Nehru opened a foreign affairs debate in the Lower House of Parliament with an expression of hope that the forthcoming Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina would produce an easing of international tensions. However, he said India—which hasn't been invited—has "no desire whatever to appear or participate in these conferences."

Baltimore Piers Congested

Baltimore, March 23 (AP)—Baltimore piers were congested today with cargo diverted from New York city's strife-torn docks and steamship men said very few more ships, if any, can be accommodated until present commitments are filled. "There's more inward cargo here right now than I have ever seen in my 25 years around Baltimore," said one veteran harbor man. A new elementary school building will be erected on the 38 acre site. This building will include 16 primary classrooms, 16 intermediate classrooms, arts and crafts room, music-audio-visual room, library, cafeteria and playroom, administrative unit, teachers room, health unit and storage facilities and book supply and storage rooms.

Play, Parking Areas

The plans also will provide play areas and parking areas.

In submitting the program to the voters it was brought to their attention the increased school population during the past ten years. In 1943 the total school population was 406 children in grades kindergarten to sixth grade and 466 children in grades seven through 12. In 1953 there were 817 children in grades kindergarten to 6 and 621 in the seventh through twelfth grades. In 1956 it is anticipated the school population will total 1850.

Since 1947 when the board leased the Wayside Inn barn for a school machine shop numerous other rented spaces have been added to the system to accommodate the school population.

Plans for the project were prepared by Architects Starrett and Van Vleck and Reginald E. Marsh and Howard C. Snyder associate architects. Educational consultants are Dr. Felix J. McCormich and Dr. Donald J. Leu of Columbia University.

John C. Braun is supervising principal of the Central District.

closing date. She has held the office, which is set up in her home, only since Dec. 1, 1953. She succeeded Miss Stella Brophy, who had held the office since November, 1938.

The postmaster who followed Van Wagenen was George McAvoy. Then came E. D. Mack who had served for some time and was followed by Jerome Mack who left the office in 1914 when it was taken over by David Mowell. Next came Frank Sheeley who was followed by Miss Brophy. McAvoy, it was reported, was appointed by President Cleveland.

The only two men who delivered the mail from Kingston in these years, Mrs. Sagar said, were William Deyo and Clifford Christiana.

First Building Burned

The first building used for the post office on the Sarah LeFever property burned down some time ago. The Gershuny home, which now houses it, is on the corner of Creek Locks Road and School Lane.

Mrs. Gershuny said "the post office box equipment, which is very old and considered antique, will be up for sale to the highest bidder after the closing day."

Mrs. Gershuny said she took over the post office in the midst of the Christmas rush, and apparently without the knowledge that it was soon to be closed. She said she received a high efficiency rating from Post Office Inspector Daley, when he made a routine inspection.

Mrs. Gershuny is the wife of Attorney Hyman Gershuny, who holds the title of junior land and claims adjuster in the Bureau of Rights of Way, Poughkeepsie office, of the state public works department. He has worked his way up in various state departments since March 8, 1938, she said.

Collectors Anxious

Stamp collectors in the area already have asked for last day cancellations when the office closes, she said, and others have requested pictures.

The old postal box arrangement, which served the office through the years, has a brass plate on it saying it was manufactured by the Postmaster's Supply Co., of Baltimore, Md., and Kansas City, Mo.

Suspended Second Time

New York, March 23 (AP)—A civilian employe at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., has been suspended for the second time from his job as a radar engineer, it was disclosed yesterday. The engineer's lawyer, Harry Green, said his client had been suspended previously and reinstated last fall. The new suspension, he said, was ordered on grounds similar to those on which the engineer has been exonerated previously. Green did not disclose the name of the engineer, but described him as a 34-year-old section chief earning $8,360 annually, and who had a "fine war record."

No Basis for Saucers

Washington, March 23 (AP)—A spokesman today termed without basis an assertion that the air force has recovered hunks of "flying saucers" and just isn't telling the public about them. The air force position, he said, is that "given enough factual data" every "flying saucer" report over the last six years could be explained in natural, earthly, non-sensational terms. "We don't think the so-called saucers come from outer space or from a foreign government," the spokesman said. Bill Nash, a Pan American World Airways pilot, told the Greater Miami Aviation Assn. recently he was convinced that "the air force has collected hardware from outer space."

Praises Eisenhower

What will be the issues in the next election?

Hall: "Voters will be concerned with the scorecard on the Eisenhower administration. They'll be pleased, I'm sure, with our progress on the President's forward-looking program."

Mitchell: "The important question is how is the Eisenhower administration running the government and how is it handling, for instance, present economic conditions and other problems. I think Republicans are putting more attention on running for office than running the government."

Will communism be an issue?

Hall: "The people are entitled to the facts."

Mitchell: "The issue won't be communism because I don't know of anybody in favor of it. Everybody's against it and that doesn't make an issue."

Hall and Mitchell both attended Georgetown University Law School but didn't meet each other until they became party chairman. Mitchell said their paths have crossed only three times in their present posts.

In their dinner speeches, Hall and Mitchell both urged greater participation in government by all citizens.

Less Chance of War

New Delhi, India, March 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today he believes there is "less chance of war now than a year or two ago," but he feels a peaceful future is no certainty. Nehru opened a foreign affairs debate in the Lower House of Parliament with an expression of hope that the forthcoming Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina would produce an easing of international tensions. However, he said India—which hasn't been invited—has "no desire whatever to appear or participate in these conferences."

New Haven, Conn., was reopened as a port for large ocean ships in March 1954 after having been closed to them for 50 years.

Baltimore Piers Congested

Baltimore, March 23 (AP)—Baltimore piers were congested today with cargo diverted from New York city's strife-torn docks and steamship men said very few more ships, if any, can be accommodated until present commitments are filled. "There's more inward cargo here right now than I have ever seen in my 25 years around Baltimore," said one veteran harbor man. New York harbor has been tied up for 17 days wtih a longshoremen's jurisdictional squabble.

room, two general science rooms, library, typing room, business machine room, secretarial practice room, girl's and boys' gyms, cooking room, sewing room, homemaking room, two art rooms, two shops, a cafeteria-study hall, auditorium, music room, teachers dining-conference room and an administrative suite for the staff.

A new elementary school building will be erected on the 38 acre site. This building will include 16 primary classrooms, 16 intermediate classrooms, arts and crafts room, music-audio-visual room, library, cafeteria and playroom, administrative unit, teachers room, health unit and storage facilities and book supply and storage rooms.

Play, Parking Areas

The plans also will provide play areas and parking areas.

In submitting the program to the voters it was brought to their attention the increased school population during the past ten years. In 1943 the total school population was 406 children in grades kindergarten to sixth grade and 466 children in grades seven through 12. In 1953 there were 817 children in grades kindergarten to 6 and 621 in the seventh through twelfth grades. In 1956 it is anticipated the school population will total 1850.

Since 1947 when the board leased the Wayside Inn barn for a school machine shop numerous other rented spaces have been added to the system to accommodate the school population.

Plans for the project were prepared by Architects Starrett and Van Vleck and Reginald E. Marsh and Howard C. Snyder associate architects. Educational consultants are Dr. Felix J. McCormich and Dr. Donald J. Leu of Columbia University.

John C. Braun is supervising principal of the Central District.

Creek Locks Post Office to Close

closing date. She has held the office, which is set up in her home, only since Dec. 1, 1953. She succeeded Miss Stella Brophy, who had held the office since November, 1938.

The postmaster who followed Van Wagenen was George McAvoy. Then came E. D. Mack who had served for some time and was followed by Jerome Mack who left the office in 1914 when it was taken over by David Mowell. Next came Frank Sheeley who was followed by Miss Brophy. McAvoy, it was reported, was appointed by President Cleveland.

The only two men who delivered the mail from Kingston in these years, Mrs. Sagar said, were William Deyo and Clifford Christiana.

First Building Burned

The first building used for the post office on the Sarah LeFever property burned down some time ago. The Gershuny home, which now houses it, is on the corner of Creek Locks Road and School Lane.

Mrs. Gershuny said "the post office box equipment, which is very old and considered antique, will be up for sale to the highest bidder after the closing day."

Mrs. Gershuny said she took over the post office in the midst of the Christmas rush, and apparently without the knowledge that it was soon to be closed. She said she received a high efficiency rating from Post Office Inspector Daley, when he made a routine inspection.

Mrs. Gershuny is the wife of Attorney Hyman Gershuny, who holds the title of junior land and claims adjuster in the Bureau of Rights of Way, Poughkeepsie office, of the state public works department. He has worked his way up in various state departments since March 8, 1938, she said.

Collectors Anxious

Stamp collectors in the area already have asked for last day cancellations when the office closes, she said, and others have requested pictures.

The old postal box arrangement, which served the office through the years, has a brass plate on it saying it was manufactured by the Postmaster's Supply Co., of Baltimore, Md., and Kansas City, Mo.

Suspended Second Time

New York, March 23 (AP)—A civilian employe at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., has been suspended for the second time from his job as a radar engineer, it was disclosed yesterday. The engineer's lawyer, Harry Green, said his client had been suspended previously and reinstated last fall. The new suspension, he said, was ordered on grounds similar to those on which the engineer has been exonerated previously. Green did not disclose the name of the engineer, but described him as a 34-year-old section chief earning $8,360 annually, and who had a "fine war record."

No Basis for Saucers

Washington, March 23 (AP)—A spokesman today termed without basis an assertion that the air force has recovered hunks of "flying saucers" and just isn't telling the public about them. The air force position, he said, is that "given enough factual data" every "flying saucer" report over the last six years could be explained in natural, earthly, non-sensational terms. "We don't think the so-called saucers come from outer space or from a foreign government," the spokesman said. Bill Nash, a Pan American World Airways pilot, told the Greater Miami Aviation Assn. recently he was convinced that "the air force has collected hardware from outer space."

Nurses to Attend Chicago Meeting

Mrs. Mary Bierdorf, Middletown, and Miss Mary Keating, Kingston, have been elected by District 11 of the New York State District Nurses' Association as delegates from this area to attend the 1954 Convention of the American Nurses' Association in Chicago, April 26-30.

According to an announcement from Miss Mary Keating, president of District 11, the local contingent will join with numerous other registered nurses to represent the New York State Nurses' Association at the national conclave.

The convention, which meets biennally, is expected to attract more than seven thousand nurses from every one of the 48 states, the District of Columbia, the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, and the Panama Canal Zone, as well as visitors from several foreign countries.

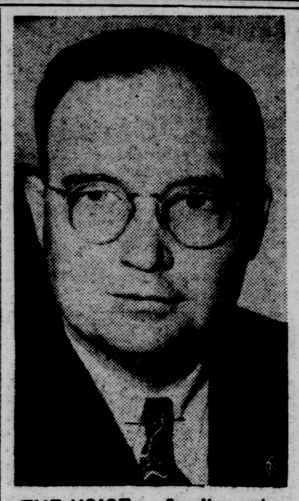

Included will be two thousand delegates of the National Student Nurse Association who will meet in joint convention with the AMA for the first time. The student group was formally organized in 1953 under the sponsorship of the Coordinating Council of the American Nurses' Association and the National League for Nursing in order to promote the interests of future members of the nursing profession.

The Chicago meeting of the ANA will elect national officers and directors, adopt an official platform, and determine basic issues affecting the structure and operation of the association and the practice of nursing in this country.

Pipeline Move Sought

Beirut (AP)—Iraq wants a big oil pipeline planned to end in Haifa in Israel to be diverted through Syria to the Lebanon coast. The line was partially built in 1948 but was never finished because of the Israel-Arab war which still is going on despite a cease fire. If the line were completed by the new route it could increase by 7½ million tons the 36 million tons now pumped through Lebanon, Iraq officials say. Meanwhile, officials of the Iraq Petroleum Co., dominated by the British have denied that the big, idle oil refinery in Haifa will be moved to Lebanon.

THE VOICE — Leading voice opposing admission of Alaska and Hawaii to statehood is Sen. James O. Eastland (D., Miss.). After holding the Senate floor for some four hours, he said he had hardly reached a "preface" of what he had to say.

CIO Is Holding Off On Pact Till Later

New York, March 23 (AP)—Top leaders of the CIO have decided to hold up final approval of a no-raiding pact with the AFL until more AFL unions promise to go along with the agreement.

The decision was announced yesterday by CIO President Walter P. Reuther after a meeting of the CIO Executive Board. Its sessions continue today.

Reuther said "virtually every union affiliated with the CIO" has approved the no-raiding proposal but among AFL unions "a considerable number have not yet ratified the agreement."

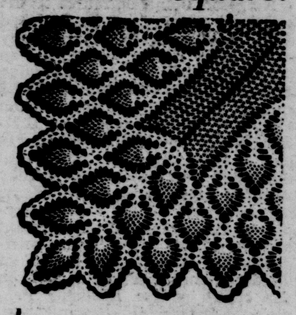

The no-raiding proposal, which would bar any union from organizing workers covered by another union, has been endorsed by Reuther and AFL President George Meany. It was approved last year at conventions of both the CIO and AFL.

It applies to an individual union, however, only after that union agrees to abide by decisions of arbitration machinery that would be set up to settle inter-union membership disputes.

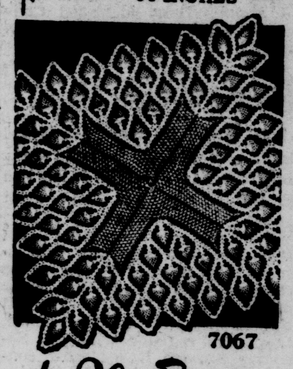

The no-raiding pact, it was reported, has been approved by all but two of the CIO's 35 unions, and these two represent only two per cent of the CIO's members.

In the AFL, however, only 46 out of 111 separate unions have approved the no-raiding plan, a CIO spokesman said. Among the holdouts is the AFL's largest union, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Nationwide CD Attack Planned on June 14-15

Washington, March 23 (AP)—A nationwide civil defense exercise, featuring mock atomic attacks on 42 selected critical target areas, was announced for June 14-15 by the Civil Defense Administration today.

"Operation Alert," designed to disclose weaknesses and improve efficiency of civil defense organizations at all levels, will involve all 48 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Alaska and the 10 provinces of Canada.

For purposes of the test, it will be assumed that aircraft carrying atomic weapons will attack the Continental United States and Alaska, and that guided missiles with atomic warheads will be launched from submarines on Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Other federal agencies, including the Defense Department, are helping to plan this first test in which all the states will take part at the same time.

Traffic Guides to Help Police Near Schools

New York, March 23 (AP)—The mayor's Traffic Safety Conference has made plans for hiring civilian school crossing guards—many of them housewives—to relieve uniformed police for other duties.

The plan is scheduled to start on an experimental basis in the Bronx early in September, with the hiring of an initial batch of 100.

Eventually, according to the plan, all 2,262 school crossings in the city will have civilian guards at an estimated cost of $2,150,000 a year. About 1,300 of the crossings now are normally covered by police.

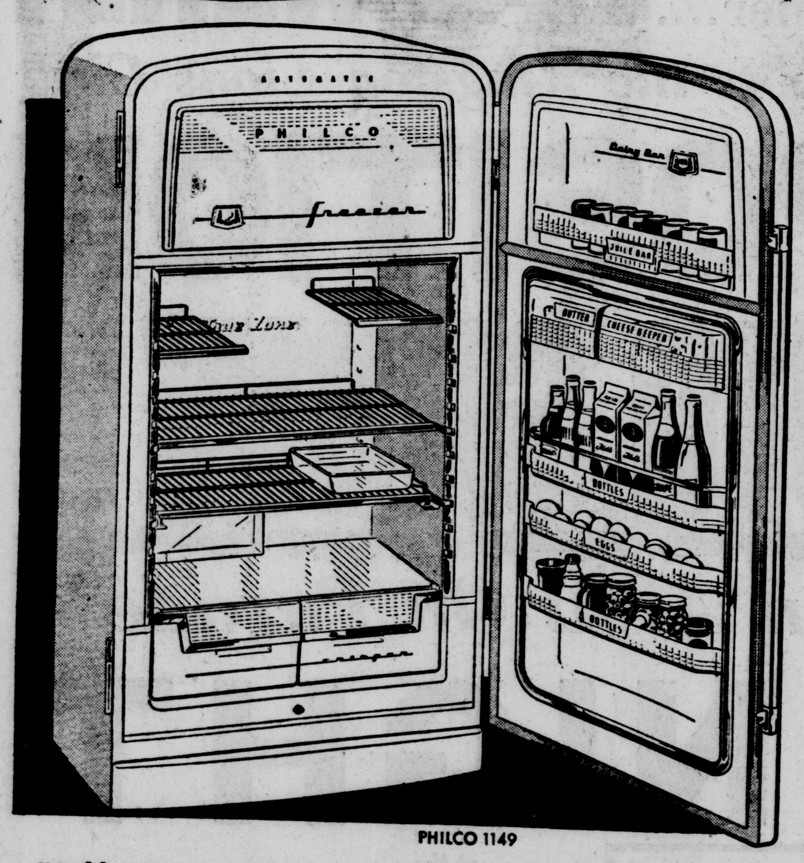

Action by the city council is needed to set up the corps, proposed yesterday by the conference called by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The guards would be paid about $1,000 a year for 3½ hours of duty each school day at crossings near their homes. Uniforms, hats, belts and armbands will be provided.

Many other cities in the nation employ civilian school crossing guards.

Theatre Plans Fighting Fire Closing Order

New York, March 23 (AP)—Operators of The Circle in the Square, an off-Broadway theatre now playing the hit show, "The Girl on the Via Flaminia," plan today to fight a fire department closing order.

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. last night shut down the theatre, which opened some five years ago. He said its exits were poor, its sprinkler system inadequate and the building "wholly unsuited for use as a theatre."

Shows at The Circle are produced by the technique of theatre-in-the-round, with the audience seated all around the stage. It is housed in a former Greenwich Village night club and uses the old dance floor for a stage.

Troops Back 'Reforms'

Hong Kong (AP)—The Kwangtung radio at Canton has confirmed that Red Army troops had been used in completing the Communist land reform in South China. The radio called upon the people to donate money and useful articles to the troops for their "great accomplishment in carrying out the land reform." It said that 100,000 troops were so used. Another 10,000 troops were used in enforcing "democratic reform" among fishermen along the South China coast.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time I have seen the steps of Kingston High School being repaired. I think it was only months ago, so it seems, or during the past summer, that the steps were completely removed and other steps to the main entrance made. What is the mystery of those otherwise substantial looking steps. Looking back in a Kingston Freeman and Journal of Tuesday, Feb. 2, 1915 I see that Charles K. Moulton, principal of the Kingston Academy, was appointed principal of the new high school. Among the other business taken up at the board was the front entrance. The building committee submitted the following, "Your committee on high school site and building wish to report that in accordance with a contract with Henry McNamee for cutting down the knoll, excavating and grading the grounds in the immediate front of the new high school, under the specifications of Engineer E. B. Codwise, the grade line for the roadway in front of the building, is about 5 foot lower than the line contemplated by the architect at the time his plans, and specifications were adopted."

It further says: "This grading and excavating has made it necessary to build additional steps and platforms in order to secure an easy and suitable approach to the building." Therefore, it seems that they then made an agreement with George T. Kelly, contractor, who agreed to furnish all additional steps, check pieces, brick and concrete foundations and all material and labor necessary for the main entrance according to specifications of A. C. Longyear, architect, for the sum of $719. The story of the Kingston High School main entrance steps did not end there. The building committee further recommended that Contractor Kelly be allowed the privilege of using Norwich bluestone instead of Hudson river bluestone as specified in the terms of the contract. It seems our Hudson river bluestone could not be secured before April unless the quarries were especially opened for this purpose. As the bluestone was required immediately, Mr. Kelly was allowed to use the Norwich bluestone.

Also because of new rules adopted by the State Education Department, it was necessary to place a sink with hot and cold water faucets in the manual training room in the basement, also another sink and such water connections in the drafting room on the second floor. The L. F. Bannon Plumbing, Heating and Contracting Co. had offered to do this work for $133 which Architect A. C. Longyear considered reasonable and on motion of Trustee Bernstein it was adopted.

It is interesting to read about the building of KHS in detail. At the time they also removed the slate blackboards from Kingston Academy to KHS. Also from the 20 some samples of five firms on chairs for the high school auditorium, it was finally decided to take what was known as Opera Chair No. 5 from Stock and Cordts at $2.45 per seat. Each chair was to be provided with a number plate, the arms at the ends of each row with a letter-plate and the woodwork of the chairs to be stained and finished in harmony with the wood finish of the auditorium. Stock and Cordts were not only to furnish the chairs but also to secure them to the floor.

Coffee was imported into Colonial America at least as early as 1670.

Economists Criticize U. S. Foreign Policy

Princeton, N. J., March 23 (AP)—A report by the Randall Commission, submitted to President Eisenhower and Congress, has been criticized by a panel of 18 economists as failing to provide a sound economic foreign policy.

The Randall report, the panel stated yesterday, "does not deal with the problem of the impact of an American business slump on other countries" and does not stress "the possibility of American consumers and producers standing to gain from freer trade and larger imports."

Two Princeton University economists prepared the 25,000-word critizue for the panel of economists, who met here last month. The economists' views were summarized in the report by Klaus Knorr of the Center of International Study, and Gardner Patterson, of the International Finance section.

The panel's report said the Randall Commission failed "to assert American leadership or to enlighten the American people to their international responsibilities and opportunities."

The commission, headed by Clarence B. Randall, had submitted its recommendations to Eisenhower and Congress in January.

Its proposals were for freer world trade; a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act with limited additional authority to reduce tariffs; and encouragement of increased private foreign investments through special tax exemptions.

The Randall report also described the present farm price supports as incompatible with the nation's international trade policies.

Improvement Mapped

Jefferson, Iowa (AP)—Mayor L. E. (Tex) Fay has made a tongue-in-cheek suggestion for increasing parking revenues here. His plan: Dollar meters in front of the banks, 50-cent meters in front of "coffee joints," penny and nickel meters elsewhere in the business district "for the poor folks."

Deputy Commissioner May Go to Maryland

Albany, March 23 (AP)—Clement J. Ferling, deputy state correction commissioner, will retire from state service May 1 to accept a post in the Maryland prison system.

An informed source said yesterday Ferling, 50, would become superintendent of a Maryland reformatory for men at Breathedsville. There was no official announcement of Ferling's plans to retire from his $10,932-a-year post here.

A native of Brooklyn, Ferling was educated in Yonkers and joined the Correction Department as an employe of Sing Sing Prison at Ossining in 1922. He later served from time to time as acting warden of Sing Sing.

In 1939, Ferling took leave of absence from New York state service to head the Correction Department of Rhode Island. He returned to New York in 1941. Ferling became assistant director of the Elmira reception center in 1950 and was appointed deputy commissioner in 1953.

He and Mrs. Ferling, the former Sarah Elizabeth Donohue of Ossining, live in Selkirk, an Albany suburb.

No other Beer is so low in Calories yet tastes so good!.

Imagine, if you will, a beer with a taste so bright it literally "sings"... a beer that's deep, rich, velvety in body yet is far less filling than beers of the past! Light, easy on the figure, low in calories, too. In creating such a beer, Knickerbocker has accomplished what seemed impossible.

Today the trend is towards a lighter beer. And that's what Knickerbocker is. It's the first beer to achieve lightness without sacrifice of quality. It's extra light—frosty-dry—and better tasting at the same time!

That's because Knickerbocker—by means of certain special steps in brewing—removes all undesirable flavor elements found in ordinary beers. Achieves a superior smoothness and mellowness—a more glorious flavor! And the happy outcome is this:—

Knickerbocker, glass after glass, will please you as no beer you ever drank before. Yet . . . Knickerbocker costs you no more than ordinary beers!

Theatre Plans Fighting Fire Closing Order

New York, March 23 (AP)—Operators of The Circle in the Square, an off-Broadway theatre now playing the hit show, "The Girl on the Via Flaminia," plan today to fight a fire department closing order.

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. last night shut down the theatre, which opened some five years ago. He said its exits were poor, its sprinkler system inadequate and the building "wholly unsuited for use as a theatre."

Shows at The Circle are produced by the technique of theatre-in-the-round, with the audience seated all around the stage. It is housed in a former Greenwich Village night club and uses the old dance floor for a stage.

Troops Back 'Reforms'

Hong Kong (AP) — The Kwangtung radio at Canton has confirmed that Red Army troops had been used in completing the Communist land reform in South China. The radio called upon the people to donate money and useful articles to the troops for their "great accomplishment in carrying out the land reform." It said that 100,000 troops were so used. Another 10,000 troops were used in enforcing "democratic reform" among fishermen along the South China coast.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time I have seen the steps of Kingston High School being repaired. I think it was only months ago, so it seems, or during the past summer, that the steps were completely removed and other steps to the main entrance made. What is the mystery of those otherwise substantial looking steps. Looking back in a Kingston Freeman and Journal of Tuesday, Feb. 2, 1915 I see that Charles K. Moulton, principal of the Kingston Academy, was appointed principal of the new high school. Among the other business taken up at the board was the front entrance. The building committee submitted the following, "Your committee on high school site and building wish to report that in accordance with a contract with Henry McNamee for cutting down the knoll, excavating and grading the grounds in the immediate front of the new high school, under the specifications of Engineer E. B. Codwise, the grade line for the roadway in front of the building, is about 5 foot lower than the line contemplated by the architect at the time his plans, and specifications were adopted."

It further says: "This grading and excavating has made it necessary to build additional steps and platforms in order to secure an easy and suitable approach to the building." Therefore, it seems that they then made an agreement with George T. Kelly, contractor, who agreed to furnish all additional steps, check pieces, brick and concrete foundations and all material and labor necessary for the main entrance according to specifications of A. C. Longyear, architect, for the sum of $719. The story of the Kingston High School main entrance steps did not end there. The building committee further recommended that Contractor Kelly be allowed the privilege of using Norwich bluestone instead of Hudson river bluestone as specified in the terms of the contract. It seems our Hudson river bluestone could not be secured before April unless the quarries were especially opened for this purpose. As the bluestone was required immediately, Mr. Kelly was allowed to use the Norwich bluestone.

Also because of new rules adopted by the State Education Department, it was necessary to place a sink with hot and cold water faucets in the manual training room in the basement, also another sink and such water connections in the drafting room on the second floor. Tags for Car Drivers

By FRANK TRIPP

When bus drivers and plane pilots shuttle from bus to bus or from plane to plane they carry with them an identification tab which bears their name. They post it in the passenger compartment where all riders can see it.

It is a symbol of competency. Car drivers carry their identification in their purse or pocket.

Nobody save an authorized officer is fre to demand proof that a driver is licensed, not until an accident happens and the damage is done.

Cars and trucks must carry numbered plates specifically issued to them in the name of the owner. But the catch is that the owner need not always drive his own car. He may loan it, hire a driver, or it may be stolen. The juvenile light-of-his-eye may sneak it out of the garage for a joy ride.

THE KILLER that is tagged so all may see is harmless until a human presides at its controls. Once there, any incompetent or criminal may whiz it through traffic for hours, days or weeks until he is caught. With luck he can cross the continent unmolested, unless he has an accident or comes upon a road block.

It is the driver, not the car, that ignores traffic laws, destroys property, maims and kills people; yet the states issue the only visible evidence of right to use the highways to a machine rather than to its driver. This enables countless incompetents to conceal their illegal status from the unfortunates who are endangered by their antics.

If it were possible for any citizen to know on sight that a driver isn't licensed, as readily as he can spot an unlicensed car, the roads could be ridded of many potential maimers and the work of traffic officers greatly simplified.

THERE IS A WAY to accomplish this. Suppose that, with the driver's license, there was issued a distinctive thin plastic emblem the size of a playing card which a driver must attach to any vehicle that he is driving, then carry it away with him, as he should his car keys.

The place to display it should be conspicuous and uniform, such as a slot at the lower left hand corner of the windshield. A place where its absence would immediately attract attention.

OBVIOUSLY such a gimmick would be no cure-all, would not stop car thefts nor help a driver who left his label in his car, as some do their keys. Such careless people will always be with us. Still any unauthorized use of a car would necessitate either a cancellable label in the possession of the vagrant driver or his theft of both a label and a car.

It is appalling how many fatal accidents are caused by unlicensed drivers and by juveniles who might have been spotted upon their first encounter with a traffic cop, had the officer, or any citizen, only need note the absence of such a telltale device.

Junior won't like this idea at all, though maybe pop would sleep with his own label tucked safely under his pillow.

WELL, there you have the muse of an amateur fixer, who also wonders how come that chickens have well nigh eliminated traffic casualties, and people haven't.

Early motorists seldom took a ride into the country that they didn't kill from one to a half dozen chickens. Gradually the slaughter lessened. Fewer and fewer chickens were on the highways and the old gag, "Why does a chicken cross the road?" went into the discard.

Mother hens that saw Aunt Jenny ground under the wheels of a passing automobile began to teach their chicks how to cross the road. Until today it is rare to see a hen on a highway, even way back in the sticks.

If a chicken could learn not to jay walk, why can't people?

Smith Family Says Hello

Alexandria, Va. (AP)—If you live in northern Virginia you undoubtedly have talked to the family of Mrs. Sarah Smith, of Haymarket. Mrs. Smith and 16 or the 19 members of her family who have served the telephone company a total of 214 years were honored by the company at a meeting here. Mrs. Smith, mother of 11 children, said her sons and daughters and their children had helped furnish telephone service for a couple of generations and that she had 33 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren who would be ready to carry on. She was born at Manassas in 1873, or three years before Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone.

Cleveland, March 22 (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Don Graham never got to use the family car at night. His dad didn't think he could drive well enough. Last night Don was arrested while driving a stolen car. He hanged himself in his jail cell, police reported. Don's father, Ernest Graham, said, "Maybe if I'd let him use the car, this wouldn't have happened. But how can you tell?"

Dummy Reversal Is Worth Studying

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How do you play today's hand at four hearts against absolutely perfect defense? The answer is that you play it unsuccessfully. But if you play the hand against normal human beings you will probably make your contract, provided that you adopt the right line of play.

West opens the queen of spades and East signals enthusiastically with the nine. You win with the ace of spades and must now pick out the line of play most likely to succeed.

One possibility is to draw only two rounds of trump and then try three top diamonds. If the diamonds break 3-3, all is well. Even if the diamonds fail to break 3-3, the contract will be safe if the player with long diamonds also has the last trump.

As the cards lie, the contract will be defeated if this line of play is adopted, since West will be able to ruff the third round of diamonds. (It does South no good to draw all of the trumps, since he will then wind up losing three clubs and a diamond.)

Declarer's best chance consists in leading a low club at the second trick. South expects to lose this trick, of course, but he also expects the defender to lead another spade. If they do, the rest is easy.

South ruffs a spade continuation, enters dummy with the nine of hearts and ruffs another spade. South gets to dummy again with king of hearts to ruff dummy's last spade with his own last trump.

He can next return to dummy with the king of diamonds in order to draw the last trump with the jack of hearts. On this trick, South can discard a club. Declarer then cashes the top diamonds, making sure of ten tricks.

This line of play, called a "dummy reversal," allows declarer to ruff three times in his own hand and also make three trump tricks in the dummy. Six trump tricks and four high cards in the side suits are enough for the game contract.

If the declarer refuses to lead a spade, the "dummy reversal" will not work because South cannot get to dummy often enough. But the spade continuation is very normal, and South should give the opponents a chance to help him before he indicates what his own plans are.

Whale Eludes Science

La Jolla, Calif. (AP)—A scientific attempt to take the heart beat of a whale has failed again. Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston cardiologist, was assisted by Navy and University of California oceanographers in the try to get near enough to a gray whale to harpon it with two 28-inch darts, from which it was hooped an electrical current would record the heart beat. The 67-year-old cardiologist, who also had the assistance of Dr. Robert King of Seattle, president of the American Heart Association, couldn't get close enough in the Navy boat to make the harpoon contacts. He made a similiar try off La Jolla last year, in the hope the experiment would support his theory that heart-beat rate is relative to size, in humans as well as other creatures.

Although water holes are gathering places for many animals on which the lion preys, he seldom makes a kill at one of these oases.

Climate Is Warmer

International Falls, Minn. (AP)—Len Costley has been playing Paul Bunyan roles since 1934 as an avocation—including tall tales. Reviewing the past winter he says things have been getting warmer. "Back in the early 1900s when I was lumberjacking it got so cold we didn't get daylight until noon. The darkness froze and it took that long to thaw out."

Royal Family Selected at Queen Esther Ball

Celebration Marking Purim Festival Held In Skyroom at Center

At the gala first annual Queen Esther Ball and Carnival Saturday evening, sponsored by the Jewish Community Center, the teen-agers who were present together with their parents in a family celebration marking the festival of Purim, selected the Queen of the Ball and her Prince Consort. Leading in the popular vote for Queen was Miss Marilyn Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Black. Stuart Buchbinder, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Buchbinder was elected by the teen-agers as Prince Mordecai.

As Lady-In-Waiting to Queen Esther, Miss Carol Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rose was selected and Stanley Parnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Parnett, was chosen as the Squire to Prince Mordecai. All the teen-agers are students in the Kingston High School and actively associated with the Jewish Community Center.

The four members of the royal couple were honored in appropriate ceremonies during the ball and received handsome awards. In addition, the names of the winners will be inscribed on a plaque which will be permanently affixed in the Center.

According to Mrs. Leone Gross, chairman of the Queen Esther Ball Committee, the affair was a huge success. The Center was beautifully decorated on all floors with carnival booths and a lovely Skyroom decor where the adults and teen-agers made merry in celebration of Purim. Bob Browning, newscaster, was in attendance, and joined in the festivities.

Reviewing the event with Center director Sam Gaber, David Kline first vice-president of the Jewish Community Center, said that the unqualified success of the First Annual Queen Esther Ball augured well for a thriving Center in the community of Kingston.

SEWING BEFORE COMPANY

A mother writes me as follows: "I am a housewife with three small children. I am kept busy all day long looking after the children's needs, preparing meals, etc. When I have mending to do, I usually do it at night after the children have gone to bed. When neighbors or friends drop in to see us in the evening, I continue with what I am doing while talking to them. My husband thinks this is very rude to our visitors and that I should put my work aside and give them my undivided attention. I would like to know what you have to say about this."

If they had been especially invited to come in to see you, then it would be very rude not to put your sewing aside. But if they just come in for a visit uninvited, there is no reason why you should not sit and sew if it does not distract your attention.

Inviting Man's Family

Dear Mrs. Post: Within a few weeks my boy friend and I intend to announce our engagement. We have decided that it is time our parents met each other and they are in agreement with this. My mother would like to invite his parents to Sunday dinner, but we are not sure how this should be done. Would it be proper for my mother to write a note to his mother, telephone her, or being that I know them so well, would it be proper for me to extend the invitation in my parents' names?

Answer: The invitation should come from your mother—either by written note or by telephone.

Telephone Conversation

Dear Mrs. Post: When at the close of a telephone conversation a person says, "Thank you for calling," what is the correct reply to make? To say "You're welcome" to a friend does not seem right to me as it implies that you have done the person a favor by calling.

Answer: To a stranger who has asked you for information you say, "You're welcome." To a friend you need say nothing except "good-bye" unless she gives you some special news, in which case you would say, "Thank you for telling me about Jane."

Is it good taste to use a printed card for acknowledging a personal kindness? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-21 "Model Notes," answers the above and many other questions on notes. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. X-Rays in Color

New York, March 23 (AP)—Now you can get your X-ray pictures in color. A system for making them, described as a significant new tool for medical science, was reported to the Institute of Radio Engineers today by Prof. R. Stuart Mackay of the University of California. Experiments show the color X-ray pictures give more detail than the ordinary black and gray variety, he said in a paper prepared for presentation on the second day of the four-day session of the big international organization of electronics scientists.

Inheritance is the cause of about half the blindness in the United States say the Better Vision Institute.

First Woman to Fly Jet Faster Than Sound Cited at West Point

The first woman to fly through the sound barrier, Miss Jacqueline Cochran, was honored Tuesday, March 16, at the United States Military Academy, by the West Point Chapter of National Sojourners, Lafayette Leadership Baton. The tapping ceremony, held at the Officers Club, was conducted by Frederic Snyder of Kingston, chairman of the Lafayette Baton Committee of the Sons of the American Revolution, who composed the citation and originated the military ritual employed.

Miss Cochran became the fifth distinguished personality to be so honored, and the citation presented to her reads:

This is to declare that Jacqueline Cochran: Was this day enrolled on the National Lafayette Honor List. She having been tapped for honors by the Lafayette Baton in ceremonies conducted by West Point Chapter No. 344, National Sojourners, West Point, March 16, 1954; Her useful exploits in aviation move us to call her a "Queen of the Skies." She is noted for vast speeds and for being just as swift in the performance of kindly deeds. Her interests are as wide as the sky and as round as the globe; An adequate American, a creative citizen of the Kingdom of God and the United States of America.

Won Harmon Trophy 14 Times

The ceremonies at West Point were under the chairmanship of Lt. Col. Pierre O. Evans, and the citation was read by the founder of the chapter, Capt. Robert S. Day. All of the officers present signed the certificate. Brig. Gen. Fenton, president of the Association of Graduates of West Point, headed the list.

Col. Carl C. Terry, of 124 Wall street, a member of the Lafayette Baton Committee, assisted in the induction as did Col. William M. Browning of Newburgh. William C. MacElveen of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., Kingston, was a guest at the ceremonies.

This exercise was coincident with the many forms of celebration on the 152nd anniversary of the U. S. Military Academy.

Jacqueline Cochran, who is wed to Floyd Odlum, a pioneer in aviation himself, has won the Harmon Trophy 15 times and the Distinguished Service Medal for organizing women pilots (WASPS) in World War 2. Through the years, she has legally adopted three orphans in Spain, and has supported over 40 children.

From a beginning as an unadopted orphan in Florida, Miss Cochran has become world famous for her exploits in the air, and has also found time and energy to manage four successful businesses.

This amazing woman, the first to fly a jet faster than sound, remarked that next to the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Honor, the citation presented by the Lafayette Baton Committee is "the most significant."

This Baton will soon come to Kingston when the Service Clubs will sponsor the program. Mrs. Frederick E. Hyde, Jr. of Kingston, was honored in Newburgh, Feb. 23 with this same "tapping" ceremony.

Elwood P. Dowd, Friend of Harvey, On Stage This Week

IRVING ROSE
Lipgar Photo

A man's best friend is not always his dog. Sometimes it is the rabbit. Especially if the rabbit doesn't exist. And practically everyone wants to be friends with Harvey, the world's most famous non-existent rabbit, and special buddy to Elwood P. Dowd. played by Irving Rose hero of the celebrated Broadway comedy hit called Harvey coming to the George Washington School Wednesday and Thursday. The production will be presented by Rotary with the Coach House Players.

The spirit and idea of Harvey, in or out of quotation marks, has so penterated every city throughout the world where the comedy has been given that Harvey has come to enjoy a popularity that makes most live and visible actors green with envy.

The Harvey gag is still going strong, but it has reached truly gigantic proportions during the play's four-year run in New York and simultaneous coast-to-coast tour. As soon as Harvey settled down in a community, friends would start pretending injured feelings because you didn't greet Harvy, standing alongside them. Scores of wives told that hubby rolled in with the milkman because he had to take care of his old pal Harvey.

When Frank Fay, who played Harvey's pal on Broadway strolled into a restaurant with Mary Chase, who wrote the laugh hit about the six-foot rabbit who wasn't there, a waitress came over to ask "Will there just be the three of you?" Evidence of Fay's persuasiveness in his role — or of the reality of Harvey?

When Joe E. Brown was appearing in the touring company of Harvey, he received a crate of rabbits from an anonymous Hollywood friend. The attached note read, "Our lady rabbit hasn't been near another rabbit for a year. Wherefore Harvey must be responsible for this progeny. We'll thank you to keep him chained hereafter."

Just how much people can get caught up in the spirit of this Harvey nonsense is illustrated by the story of one man in Cincinnati who assured a waitress in one of the city's swankier restaurants that Harvey would be along any minute and that he was holding a place for him. During the meal, the lone diner addressed many remarks to Harvey, and asked his opinion on various subjects. The payoff came when the earthy waitress included Harvey in the bill, and assessed his host, a two dollar cover charge for Harvey's imaginary presence. They say the man paid the bill without a whimper.

Dr. James G. Cooper To Address Childhood Education Association

Dr. James G. Cooper, professor of Education, State University Teachers College at New Paltz, will be the featured speaker at the spring meeting of the local chapter of the Association for Childhood Education to be held in the Audio-Visual auditorium of the George Washington Elementary School Wednesday afternoon, at 3:45 p. m.

Dr. Cooper will present the topic, The Best Uses of Audio-Visual Aids in the Home and the School. Speaking from a rich background in the field of child psychology, Dr. Cooper will place special emphasis upon various aspects of the topic relative to the interests and implications of accompanying learning as it primarily concerns the elementary school age child. Since the topic is of interest to both parents and teachers, parents of children within the Kingston elementary schools and any interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Cooper, recently affiliated with the State University Teachers College during the early fall, has gained considerable prestige as an instructor and consultant in child psychology throughout the local area. He received his BS degree in education from the University of Maine in 1946 his Master's Degree from Stanford University in 1948 and his degree of Doctor of Education in 1949. His memberships in professional organizations include: Phi Delta Kappa, American Personnel and Guidance Association, American Council on Tests and Measurements, and the Board of Directors of the American Psychology Association.

Dr. Cooper brings to his afternoon's talk a wide experience in the guidance and counseling of children, having served as general supervisor in charge of guidance at the Modoc County Schools, El Turas, Cal.

He has also gained recognition for his many literary contributions relating to the field of guidance and psychology. Among his foremost publications were: Quantitative Research Factors in the Evalution of Teacher Effectiveness" in 1950, in the California Journal of Educational Research and "When Pupils Rate Their Teachers" in the same journal in 1951.

An informal tea for members and guests will be held in the school cafeteria preceding the program of the afternoon. Mrs. Maude Bunting, a member of the faculty of the George Washington School, is general chairman and will be assisted by a large committee. Miss Mary Polhemus, of the George Washington School faculty and president of the local chapter, will preside during the brief business session following the tea.

Players Featured in Movie, Julius Caesar

Louis Calhern enacts the Roman dictator, Julius Caesar, Marlon Brando his devoted friend, Mark Anthony, and Greer Garson his wife Calpurnia, in MGM's excitement-pitched filmization of the great Shakespearean drama, showing this week on the Kingston Theatre screen. Others in one of Hollywood's most distinguished star casts include James Mason, John Gielgud, Edmond O'Brien and Deborah Kerr. The picture was directed by four-time Academy Award-winner, Joseph L. Mankiewicz.

Julius Caesar, Powerful Drama of Fall Of Dictator, Filmed With All-Star Cast

Shakespeare's immortal play, Julius Caesar, will be brought to the Kingston Theatre screen this week in a brilliantly moving and powerful MGM production interpreted by some of the finest actors of the American and British stage and screen.

Comprising one of the most distinguished casts ever assembled for a motion picture are Marlon Brando in the role of Mark Antony, James Mason as Brutus, John Gielgud as Cassius, Louis Calhern as Julius Caesar, Edmond O'Brien as Casca, Greer Garson as Calpurnia and Deborah Kerr as Portia, together with 50 players in speaking roles, and thousands of extras.

One of Shakespeare's most highly dramatic and widely-quoted works, Julius Caesar is also his most topically modern play. It deals with realities of which present generations throughout the world are painfully aware—the jealous lust for power which breeds dictatorship and erupts in political violence, the twin tyrannies of autocratic government and mob rule, and the intense human conflict of those caught between such opposing forces.

Under the discerning direction of four-time Academy Award winner Joseph L. Mankiewicz, the story of Julius Caesar, who established himself as virtual dictator of Rome in 44 B. C. and of the men who plot to assassinate him, is unfolded in gripping and absorbing political terms. It is all here just as Shakespeare wrote it, starting with the attempt of Cassius, leader of the intrigue against Caesar, to enlist the noble-minded Brutus in the conspiracy, and going on to such episodes as the stadium scene in which Caesar wins the acclaim of the populace as he thrice refuses Mark Antony's offer of a king's crown; the subsequent horror of the assassination in the Senate; the guileful funeral oration by which Mark Antony rouses the wrath of the rabble against the conspirators; the purge of suspected political enemies; and the climax of the battle at Philippi by which the combined forces of Mark Antony and Octavius put the armies of Brutus and Cassius to rout. Both Cassius and Brutus die by the same sword which killed Caesar, but it is Brutus who is eulogized by Mark Antony as the "noblest Roman of them all."

In the hands of the distinguished actors and actresses who appear in this film version of Julius Caesar, its famous characters are vividly brought to life. Marlon Brando hits the peak of his career in the role of the passionately loyal Mark Antony, who avenges the death of the man he loved. James Mason gives an inspired performance as the tormented Brutus, torn between his admiration of Caesar and his condemnation of the latter's overwhelming reputation as England's foremost interpreter of Shakespearean roles with his American motion picture debut as the intriguing Cassius.

Louis Calhern gives intense dramatic conviction to the part of Caesar, at times the arrogant dictator, again a man frightened of his life. Edmond O'Brien scores as the crafty Casca, while the story's two principal feminine roles are superbly handled by Greer Garson, as Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, terrified by the dream which tells of her husband's impending doom; and Deborah Kerr, as the lovely Portia, married to Brutus but unhappy because she lacks his confidence.

Julius Caesar was produced by John Houseman, who will be remembered for his Broadway modern-dress stage version of the play. In his screen production he has again succeeded in recreating not only a Shakespearean classic but in producing a picture that spells pure entertainment. It is an offering that emphasizes the vast strides made by Hollywood in the past few years and it is a picture that no one will want to miss.

AMERICAN MENU

Pork Adds Fat and Flavor To Swedish Meat Balls

IN HANDS of Swedish chef, meat balls attain perfection that make them a gourmet's dream.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Shortly after the beautiful new white Kungsholm, flagship of the Swedish American Line, sailed proudly into New York harbor on her maiden voyage, we went aboard for luncheon. Of course there were Swedish meat balls.

The special menu, prepared by chief chef Rolf Svensson, consisted of smorgasbord (many varieties of herring, smoked Swedish salmon, Virginia ham, chicken salad, stuffed eggs, and salad Nicoise), Janson's Temptation—meat balls, Swedish venison hunter style, French fried potatoes, hearts of lettuce, parfait Kungsholm and petits fours.

Naturally, on a Swedish ship, there was much talk about Swedish meat balls. Here's a recipe we think outstanding:

It combines twice-ground round steak and boneless pork. The use of pork is a change from the customary all-beef meat balls and adds wonderful flavor as well as fat. The double grinding of the beef and pork gives the more compact meat balls which are traditional in Swedish cooking.

For regular meat balls or patties where all-beef is used, select either the fresh, ready-ground beef which your dealer displays or have round steak, chuck, flank, neck or sirloin tip ground. If the meat is quite lean, as in the case of round steak, have your meat dealer grind a bit of suet, about 2 ounces to a pound of meat, with it for a more flavorful, juicy product.

Swedish Meat Balls
(4 to 5 servings)

Three-quarters pound ground round steak, ¼ pound boneless pork, ¼ cup finely minced onion, ½ cup soft bread crumbs, fat, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 1/3 cup milk, ⅛ teaspoon allspice.

Have round steak and pork ground together twice. Brown minced onion in a small amount of fat or shortening. Combine meat, browned onion, bread crumbs, seasonings, egg and milk. Mix well and form into small balls; fry slowly in hot fat until well browned. Remove from skillet and serve hot. If desired, gravy may be made in meat drippings.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Herring salad, Swedish meat balls, gravy, buttered noodles, creamed mixed vegetables, assorted garden relishes, rye bread, butter or margarine, apple cake or pie, cheese, tea, coffee, milk.

4 reasons why pure coffee Costs 25¢ Less when you Buy it this way..... Instead of this way..

1. A pound of coffee makes more cups of coffee when we brew it at the Nescafé plant . . . than when you brew it at home.
2. Nescafé gets this extra flavor because with its scientific brewing process none of the goodness or flavor is lost.
3. No method of brewing coffee at home could be as efficient, could give you as many cups from the same pound of beans.
4. After we have brewed delicious Nescafé, we remove the water. All you do when you make Nescafé is put the water back.

You save 75¢ or more on the 6-oz. jar of Nescafé compared with 3 lbs. of ground coffee. So why not get a big jar today? Cup after cup, Nescafé gives better flavor than ground coffee . . . saves money, too!

Enough Water for All, Commissioner Says

Saugerties, March 23—According to John G. M. Hilton, president of the Saugerties Board of Water Commissioners, there is enough water in the Saugerties reservoir to allow for the increased population anticipated by the proposed housing developments of Philip A. Gatti in Glasco and the Austin Simmons development at Barclay Heights.

Hilton said the average home uses about 80 gallons of water daily and it is an easy calculation to show that about 400 new homes would increase water consumption to only an additional 32,000 gallons per day. The supply at the reservoir is ample to handle such a small increase. Hilton said there is now a 300,000 gallon surplus per day which would indicate that the additional usage is only a drop in the bucket by comparison.

According to an agreement with New York State which controls all water the village of Saugerties can sell all surplus water.

Hilton quoted from known statistics regarding the Blue Mountain reservoir when he stated that the basin has a capacity of nine million gallons and that one and a quarter million gallons are consumed daily. This is readily replenished by feeding streams and springs.

The commissioner is therefore of the opinion that developments totaling 400 to 450 new homes would not endanger the Saugerties water supply.

Hilton pointed out that in view of the situation he has made a survey of the entire water development and has made a list of recommendations to improve water facilities. These recommendations and his full report will be presented to the next village board meeting scheduled for Monday, April 5.

Waiting for Dewey

Trenton, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Some 500 persons whose jobs are based on a 90 million dollar gnawing project under the Hudson river waited today for New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to send them back to work. The work is construction of a third tube for the Lincoln Tunnel a project that received the blessing of the New Jersey Legislature and Gov. Robert Meyner last night. The project was brought to a halt last week when the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled the Port of New York Authority had no right to start the job without the consent of the New Jersey and New York Legislatures. The New York Legislature approved a bill giving consent last Friday night, but Dewey has not signed the measure, yet.

Waiting for Dewey

Trenton, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Some 500 persons whose jobs are based on a 90 million dollar gnawing project under the Hudson river waited today for New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to send them back to work. The work is construction of a third tube for the Lincoln Tunnel a project that received the blessing of the New Jersey Legislature and Gov. Robert Meyner last night. The project was brought to a halt last week when the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled the Port of New York Authority had no right to start the job without the consent of the New Jersey and New York Legislatures. The New York Legislature approved a bill giving consent last Friday night, but Dewey has not signed the measure, yet.

The word "beaver" for hat was used as early as Chaucer's time.

Harry's Angels Complete Sweep of Both Halves in 'A' Race

Whip Stubborn Lincoln Inn '5' In Finale, 82-75

Holstein, Kleine Star In Titular Victory

YMCA "A" League basketball action has ended with Harry's Angels basking in their familiar role of champions.

Harry Kapreilian's high powered outfit, first half winners, obviated the necessity of a playoff by turning back a stubborn Lincoln Park Inn outfit, 82-75, in their last outing.

With Jack Doyle and Joe Murkoff hitting steadily, the Lincolns ran up a 20-15 lead at the quarter and were in front, 44-35, at halftime. "Champ" Holstein and Big Bill Kleine began finding the range in the second half to give the Angels a 47-31 edge after the intermission.

Both teams played the entire game with tight, five-man lineups.

Holstein and Murkoff were the scoring leaders with 24 points apiece. Kleine rimmed 22 and Doyle hit 21. All five Angels were in double figures, Billy Waterous with 14, Fred Orr 10 and Eric Goercke 12. Bill Tierney rimmed 15 for the losers.

Valley Gardens got a 33-point shower from Jim Riehl and 23 more from Cliff Schoonmaker to win a free scoring thriller from Victory Bakery, 98-88.

Trailing 75-51 at the end of three periods, the Bakers exploded for 37 points, one of the most productive sessions in the Y loop this season.

Bob Kozlowski was top man for the Bakers with 26 points. Phil McCloskey of the Bakers and Bryan Lawrence and Harvey Engle of Gardens hit 16 points.

Earlier in Finger Lakes

Albany, March 23 (AP) — Although the statewide trout season opens April 10, fishermen may begin taking trout in the Finger Lakes region 10 days earlier. The State Conservation Department said yesterday that the season on lake, rainbow, brook and brown trout and salmon would open April 1 in parts of the tributaries of Seneca, Cayuga, Oswasco, Canadaigua, Keuka and Skaneateles Lakes.

Kentucky Wins

Kentucky scored 44 points to win the usual round robin in the YMCA Cadet League. Joe Tremper paced the winners with 18 points. Bob Vertetis hit 17 for the second place Georgia Tech squad (41) and Krueger scored 11 for Holy Cross which finished third.

Nats Capture 4th Straight In Playoffs

The National Basketball Association's round-robin playoffs came in for considerable criticism in some quarters, but the Sryacuse Nationals are happy about them now.

And why not? After four successive victories over Boston and New York, the Nats have a $1,500 melon to slice, a favorable position in the next round of the playoffs—and two days off.

The upstate New York team completed a clean sweep last night with a convincing 98-85 victory over the Boston Celtics. That gave Syracuse a 4-0 mark to Boston's 2-2 and New York's 0-4 in the complicated round-robin.

Now Syracuse meets Boston in a best of three semi-final series. The first game will be in Syracuse Thursday, the second in Boston Saturday afternoon and the third if necessary back in Syracuse Sunday.

Dolph Schayes was the Nats' high scorer again with 25 points, although it was Bill Kenville who sparked a third-quarter surge that sent Syracuse in front for good. Bob Cousy matched Schayes' scoring for Boston.

Kentucky Rated National Champs in Final AP Poll

New York, March 23 (AP)—Kentucky's unbeaten basketball team, which refrained from tournament competition this year, came out ahead of the two national tournament winners, La Salle and Holy Cross, in the final Associated Press ranking poll of the 1953-54 season today.

The Kentucky Wildcats, topping 71 of the 138 ballots cast by sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation, captured the No. 1 ranking by the very small margin of 32 points from LaSalle's Explorers, the newly crowned National Collegiate AA champions.

Holy Cross, the surprise winner of the National Invitation tournament, was a strong third with Indiana, the 1953 NCAA champion and a strong pre-season favorite, fourth.

The final count, on the basis of ten points for each first place ballot, nine for second, eight for third, etc., gave Kentucky 1,110 points and La Salle 1,078. Holy Cross drew 914 points and Indiana 835.

Won 25 Straight

Kentucky won 25 straight games during the regular season, including a playoff with Louisiana State for the Southeastern Conference championship but declined to enter the NCAA tournament, for which it qualified automatically.

The influence of post-season tournament results on the voting was seen in La Salle's rise to second place at the finish. The Explorers, in and out of the first 10 during the regular season and at times unable to muster enough points to make the first 20, moved up to sixth place a week ago when they entered the NCAA semi-finals. After whipping Penn State and Bradley soundly to win the title, they jumped up to second.

Holy Cross, which advanced to third place on the strength of its NIT victory, held onto that place while Indiana, still highly regarded, slid back to fourth.

The final rankings of the ten leading teams (first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

1. Kentucky (71) (25-0) 1,110
2. La Salle (33) (26-4).....1,078
3. Holy Cross (15) (26-2) 914
4. Indiana (9) (20-4) 835
5. Duquesne (1) (26-3) 657
6. Notre Dame (3) (22-3) 519
7. Bradley (19-13) 404
8. Western Kentucky (29-3) ... 364
9. Penn State (18-6) 309
10. Oklahoma A & M (1) (24-5) 202

• The Scuttlebutt Trail:

Eddie Murphy reported not anxious for another term as City Baseball League president. Meanwhile, a New Paltz entry, frozen out of the Poughkeepsie twi circuit, is seeking the sixth franchise in the Kingston loop.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Basketball fans should like the revised version of the controversial one-and-one foul rule. The 1954-55 regulation allows the "bonus" free throw on common fouls, only if the first one is made. If it's missed, the ball is in play—for the first 37 minutes of action. The 1953-54 rule actually made the second try a consolation shot, not a bonus toss. The colleges returned to the 20-minute half, instead of four quarters of 10 minutes. The change was designed to stop stalling for the "one good shot" near the end of the first and third periods.

• Esprit de Corps:

Previous attempts to perpetuate shuffleboard leagues in the city and county failed because of picayune arguments between rival teams. The Inter-Fraternal League which assembled Saturday at the Elks to pay homage to host club's championship squad, is here to stay. There is a fine feeling of camraderie between the rival teams and men like Ken Clark and Ed Hofbauer and Vern Radel and Ted Riccobono are the type to keep an organization moving. Clark and Tony Erena, of the Moose, indicated in excellent speeches Saturday that the Inter-Fraternal loop is built on a solid foundation.

• Of Men and Mice:

A business forecast says the nation's anglers will purchase 94 million pieces of equipment in 1954. Of which at least ten million will rust in Canadian shacks. The same survey predicts the sale of 36 million golf balls of which at least 25 million will wind up in ponds or woods. J. Richard Miller, the Main street traveler, vacationing in the Dominican Republic. Those Brooklyn Dodger rooters never learn. Leo Hayman of Leherbs writes from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. (Kingston's wintertime capital) that the Yankees and Dodgers will repeat. Leo would do well to stop right there but he goes on. "I pick Brooklyn to win in the series." Too much sub-tropical sun.

Kingston fans who saw the basketball classic between Army and Navy at West Point returned raving about Big Ed Weaver's brilliant performance. Bill Hannon and Mark Binstein got more publicity raves than the former KHS star, but Big Ed, always a take-charge guy, was in command of the game with Navy. He used to be an inspiring sight on the municipal auditorium boards, rallying the KHS cagers out of tight spots. We recal Big Ed drawing four personal fouls in the first half against Liberty High's fabulous Allie Hasbrouck and then running the Redskin wizard into the boards in the second half. Siena College is interested in Dick Bezemer. The statewide season for brook, brown and rainbow trout opens April 10, the second Saturday of the month.

The Stone Ridge Five is assembling a group of former greats for a benefit for the Parents, Teachers and Friends Club of the Marbletown Central School on Saturday, March 27. Tiny Ruffner, the 6 foot 7 inch radio and TV announcer, heads the Old Timers. Others who were well known in their day include Ed Muller, Charlie Hasbrouck, Harry Cornish, Carlton Beach, Buddy Emberson, Bob Schneider, John Davis, Ernest Schwarz, Bill McDougall, Merton Blanchard, Wally Fulford and Coach Charlie Ayasse. Newburgh Academy has won 10 out of 14 games in five years of competition in the New York State Class A intersectional basketball championships. Mont Pleasant was responsible for three of the setbacks. Ed Macauley of the Boston Celtics hit with 48.6 per cent of his shots to lead the NBA in that department. Best foul shooter was his teammate, Bill Sharman, who converted 84.4 per cent of his tries. The Giardello-Troy bout created more interest than anything since Gavilan-Chuck Davey. Giardello's backers cleaned up a million bucks by giving 7 to 5.

The Bobby Thomson injury did not come as a surprise to Mel Ott. When the Scot first came up to the Giants in 1947, Ottie stopped a spring training session and warned Thomson that, "you'll hurt yourself if you don't learn to slide correctly." The slide which broke Thomson's ankle was a poor one.

Nagele Hits 47 In Church Loop

Richie Nagele scored 47 points as Trinity Lutheran crushed Immanuels, 106-72 in the Protestant Junior Church League.

First Dutch did a good job of bottling up Big Phil Hendricks with four points to romp over Redeemer Lutheran, 75-32.

Trinity Lutheran (106)—Krueger, f, 8; Kuhne, f, 10; Nagele, c, 47; Scharp, g, 12; Dietz, g, 17; Longendyke, sub, 12.

Milwaukee Keglers Dominate ABC Play

Seattle, March 23 (AP)—A trio from Milwaukee, Wis., and a Portland, Ore., bowler are holding to their early leads in the American Bowling Congress but a kegler from a Seattle host team has posted the best single game score of the three-day old tournament.

Ronald Alles, a 19-year-old University of Washington student who bowls for a booster team entry, rolled a 268 game in doubles competition yesterday. It was high for the meet thus far. With Partner Tom Rasmussen he rolled a 1,154 to take eighth place in the doubles competition.

The Milwaukee Bowlers commanding the top billing of the ABC scoreboard are Ray Schanen, whose 1,913 score gives him the all-events lead, and Ray Eklund and Eldred Held, whose 1,239 is the best doubles score posted to date.

Eklund is second in the singles with 652.

9 out of 10 men don't know what PROOF means in a whiskey!
BUT YOU CAN—AND YOU'LL BE A BETTER JUDGE OF WHISKEY WHEN YOU READ THESE FACTS
Just what is Proof? Proof is the measure of a whiskey's "strength"—and is just twice a whiskey's "alcoholic content." Most blends are no more than 86 Proof. But Fleischmann's is a full 90 Proof—and this means you get more flavor, more enjoyment in every drink.

Harry's Angels Complete Sweep of Both Halves in 'A' Race

Whip Stubborn Lincoln Inn '5' In Finale, 82-75

Holstein, Kleine Star In Titular Victory

YMCA "A" League basketball action has ended with Harry's Angels basking in their familiar role of champions.

Harry Kapreilian's high powered outfit, first half winners, obviated the necessity of a playoff by turning back a stubborn Lincoln Park Inn outfit, 82-75, in their last outing.

With Jack Doyle and Joe Murkoff hitting steadily, the Lincolns ran up a 20-15 lead at the quarter and were in front, 44-35, at halftime. "Champ" Holstein and Big Bill Kleine began finding the range in the second half to give the Angels a 47-31 edge after the intermission.

Both teams played the entire game with tight, five-man lineups.

Holstein and Murkoff were the scoring leaders with 24 points apiece. Kleine rimmed 22 and Doyle hit 21. All five Angels were in double figures, Billy Waterous with 14, Fred Orr 10 and Eric Goercke 12. Bill Tierney rimmed 15 for the losers.

Valley Gardens got a 33-point shower from Jim Riehl and 23 more from Cliff Schoonmaker to win a free scoring thriller from Victory Bakery, 98-88.

Trailing 75-51 at the end of three periods, the Bakers exploded for 37 points, one of the most productive sessions in the Y loop this season.

Bob Kozlowski was top man for the Bakers with 26 points. Phil McCloskey of the Bakers and Bryan Lawrence and Harvey Engle of Gardens hit 16 points.

Albany, March 23 (AP) — Although the statewide trout season opens April 10, fishermen may begin taking trout in the Finger Lakes region 10 days earlier. The State Conservation Department said yesterday that the season on lake, rainbow, brook and brown trout and salmon would open April 1 in parts of the tributaries of Seneca, Cayuga, Oswasco, Canadaigua, Keuka and Skaneateles Lakes.

Kentucky Wins

Kentucky scored 44 points to win the usual round robin in the YMCA Cadet League. Joe Tremper paced the winners with 18 points. Bob Vertetis hit 17 for the second place Georgia Tech squad (41) and Krueger scored 11 for Holy Cross which finished third.

Nats Capture 4th Straight In Playoffs

The National Basketball Association's round-robin playoffs came in for considerable criticism in some quarters, but the Sryacuse Nationals are happy about them now.

And why not? After four successive victories over Boston and New York, the Nats have a $1,500 melon to slice, a favorable position in the next round of the playoffs—and two days off.

The upstate New York team completed a clean sweep last night with a convincing 98-85 victory over the Boston Celtics. That gave Syracuse a 4-0 mark to Boston's 2-2 and New York's 0-4 in the complicated round-robin.

Now Syracuse meets Boston in a best of three semi-final series. The first game will be in Syracuse Thursday, the second in Boston Saturday afternoon and the third if necessary back in Syracuse Sunday.

Dolph Schayes was the Nats' high scorer again with 25 points, although it was Bill Kenville who sparked a third-quarter surge that sent Syracuse in front for good. Bob Cousy matched Schayes' scoring for Boston.

Kentucky Rated National Champs in Final AP Poll

New York, March 23 (AP)—Kentucky's unbeaten basketball team, which refrained from tournament competition this year, came out ahead of the two national tournament winners, La Salle and Holy Cross, in the final Associated Press ranking poll of the 1953-54 season today.

The Kentucky Wildcats, topping 71 of the 138 ballots cast by sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation, captured the No. 1 ranking by the very small margin of 32 points from LaSalle's Explorers, the newly crowned National Collegiate AA champions.

Holy Cross, the surprise winner of the National Invitation tournament, was a strong third with Indiana, the 1953 NCAA champion and a strong pre-season favorite, fourth.

The final count, on the basis of ten points for each first place ballot, nine for second, eight for third, etc., gave Kentucky 1,110 points and La Salle 1,078. Holy Cross drew 914 points and Indiana 835.

Won 25 Straight

Kentucky won 25 straight games during the regular season, including a playoff with Louisiana State for the Southeastern Conference championship but declined to enter the NCAA tournament, for which it qualified automatically.

The influence of post-season tournament results on the voting was seen in La Salle's rise to second place at the finish. The Explorers, in and out of the first 10 during the regular season and at times unable to muster enough points to make the first 20, moved up to sixth place a week ago when they entered the NCAA semi-finals. After whipping Penn State and Bradley soundly to win the title, they jumped up to second.

Holy Cross, which advanced to third place on the strength of its NIT victory, held onto that place while Indiana, still highly regarded, slid back to fourth.

The final rankings of the ten leading teams (first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

1.	Kentucky (71) (25-0)	1,110
2.	La Salle (33) (26-4)	1,078
3.	Holy Cross (15) (26-2)	914
4.	Indiana (9) (20-4)	835
5.	Duquesne (1) (26-3)	657
6.	Notre Dame (3) (22-3)	519
7.	Bradley (19-13)	404
8.	Western Kentucky (29-3)	364
9.	Penn State (18-6)	309
10.	Oklahoma A & M (1) (24-5)	202

• The Scuttlebutt Trail:

Eddie Murphy reported not anxious for another term as City Baseball League president. Meanwhile, a New Paltz entry, frozen out of the Poughkeepsie twi circuit, is seeking the sixth franchise in the Kingston loop.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Basketball fans should like the revised version of the controversial one-and-one foul rule. The 1954-55 regulation allows the "bonus" free throw on common fouls, only if the first one is made. If it's missed, the ball is in play—for the first 37 minutes of action. The 1953-54 rule actually made the second try a consolation shot, not a bonus toss. The colleges returned to the 20-minute half, instead of four quarters of 10 minutes. The change was designed to stop stalling for the "one good shot" near the end of the first and third periods.

• Esprit de Corps:

Previous attempts to perpetuate shuffleboard leagues in the city and county failed because of picayune arguments between rival teams. The Inter-Fraternal League which assembled Saturday at the Elks to pay homage to host club's championship squad, is here to stay. There is a fine feeling of camraderie between the rival teams and men like Ken Clark and Ed Hofbauer and Vern Radel and Ted Riccobono are the type to keep an organization moving. Clark and Tony Erena, of the Moose, indicated in excellent speeches Saturday that the Inter-Fraternal loop is built on a solid foundation.

• Of Men and Mice:

A business forecast says the nation's anglers will purchase 94 million pieces of equipment in 1954. Of which at least ten million will rust in Canadian shacks. The same survey predicts the sale of 36 million golf balls of which at least 25 million will wind up in ponds or woods. J. Richard Miller, the Main street traveler, vacationing in the Dominican Republic. Those Brooklyn Dodger rooters never learn. Leo Hayman of Leherbs writes from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. (Kingston's wintertime capital) that the Yankees and Dodgers will repeat. Leo would do well to stop right there but he goes on "I pick Brooklyn to win in the series." Too much sub-tropical sun.

Kingston fans who saw the basketball classic between Army and Navy at West Point returned raving about Big Ed Weaver's brilliant performance. Bill Hannon and Mark Binstein got more publicity raves than the former KHS star, but Big Ed, always a take-charge guy, was in command of the game with Navy. He used to be an inspiring sight on the municipal auditorium boards, rallying the KHS cagers out of tight spots. We recal Big Ed drawing four personal fouls in the first half against Liberty High's fabulous Allie Hasbrouck and then running the Redskin wizard into the boards in the second half. Siena College is interested in Dick Bezemer. The statewide season for brook, brown and rainbow trout opens April 10, the second Saturday of the month.

The Stone Ridge Five is assembling a group of former greats for a benefit for the Parents, Teachers and Friends Club of the Marbletown Central School on Saturday, March 27. Tiny Ruffner, the 6 foot 7 inch radio and TV announcer, heads the Old Timers. Others who were well known in their day include Ed Muller, Charlie Hasbrouck, Harry Cornish, Carlton Beach, Buddy Emberson, Bob Schneider, John Davis, Ernest Schwarz, Bill McDougall, Merton Blanchard, Wally Fulford and Coach Charlie Ayasse. Newburgh Academy has won 10 out of 14 games in five years of competition in the New York State Class A intersectional basketball championships. Mont Pleasant was responsible for three of the setbacks. Ed Macauley of the Boston Celtics hit with 48.6 per cent of his shots to lead the NBA in that department. Best foul shooter was his teammate, Bill Sharman, who converted 84.4 per cent of his tries. The Giardello-Troy bout created more interest than anything since Gavilan-Chuck Davey. Giardello's backers cleaned up a million bucks by giving 7 to 5.

The Bobby Thomson injury did not come as a surprise to Mel Ott. When the Scot first came up to the Giants in 1947, Ottie stopped a spring training session and warned Thomson that, "you'll hurt yourself if you don't learn to slide correctly." The slide which broke Thomson's ankle was a poor one.

Nagele Hits 47 In Church Loop

Richie Nagele scored 47 points as Trinity Lutheran crushed Immanuels, 106-72 in the Protestant Junior Church League.

Milwaukee Keglers Dominate ABC Play

Seattle, March 23 (AP)—A trio from Milwaukee, Wis., and a Portland, Ore., bowler are holding to their early leads in the American Bowling Congress but a kegler from a Seattle host team has posted the best single game score of the three-day old tournament.

Ronald Alles, a 19-year-old University of Washington student who bowls for a booster team entry, rolled a 268 game in doubles competition yesterday. It was high for the meet thus far. With Partner Tom Rasmussen he rolled a 1,154 to take eighth place in the doubles competition.

The Milwaukee Bowlers commanding the top billing of the ABC scoreboard are Ray Schanen, whose 1,913 score gives him the all-events lead, and Ray Eklund and Eldred Held, whose 1,239 is the best doubles score posted to date.

Eklund is second in the singles with 652.

Jim Nelson of Portland is No. 1 in the singles division with 665.

Stan Musial's Fast Spring Start Makes Him Choice for 8th Crown

By BEN OLAN
(Associated Press Sportswriter)

Stan Musial, who failed to win his seventh National League batting championship last year only because he got off to a slow start, apparently is aiming to begin with a bang this season.

The slugging St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder slammed a home run, a triple and a single and batted in four runs yesterday as the Redbirds walloped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-3 for their eighth victory in 14 exhibition games.

Stan batted .337 in 1953 and finished third behind Brooklyn's Carl Furillo and teammate Red Schoendienst, but if it wasn't for his early season slump which left him with a .247 average after the first two months, he conceivably could have wound up far in front.

Yesterday's Cards-Phillies game was a close one until Musial drove relief pitcher Duke Markell's second pitch out of the park with two mates aboard in the fourth inning with the score tied 3-3. It was his third home run of the spring.

Gernert Makes Bid

Elsewhere, the question of "Who's on first?" for the Boston Red Sox may soon be answered if Dick Gernert keeps up his present pace.

Gernert socked two home runs, the second a game winning one, as the Boston Red Sox edged the Milwaukee Braves 4-3. Rookie Tom Herrin received credit for the the victory and Gene Conley, another first year man, was charged with the loss.

Red Sox manager Lou Boudreau previously had indicated that Gernert, Harry Aggnis, up from Louisville and Norbert Zauchin, a returning serviceman, would battle for the regular first base job. Second baseman Billy Goodman is also a possibility.

The Cincinnati Redlegs roughed up righthander Dick Donovan for three hits and three runs in the second inning and defeated the Detroit Tigers 4-3. The victory was a costly one, however, as shortstop Roy McMillan suuffered a severe cut on his right instep requiring 22 stitches to close.

Yanks Win

The New York Yankees, seemingly back in form, knocked out southpaw Alex Kellner in the fifth inning and went on to drub the Philadelphia Athletics 12-6.

A team of mixed Brooklyn regulars and rookies pushed over a run in the ninth inning to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

Wet grounds canceled the Baltimore-Cleveland game and the New York Giants tilt against the Mexican All-Stars was called off because of rain. Both Chicago teams and the Washington Senators were not scheduled.

Pro Managers In Hot Pursuit Of Glove Ace

New York, March 23 (AP)—Big-time pro boxing managers today were on the trail of Len Kanthal, a big, 18-year-old heavyweight prospect, but it won't do them any good for a long time. The Marines hold an exclusive contract on the Washington walloper for the next 2½ years.

Kanthal, a 6-3, 207-pound Marine Pfc at Quantico, Va., stopped 19-year-old Leroy Duchene of Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1:47 of the second round at Madison Square Garden last night to give the New York-Eastern Golden Glovers a 5-3 victory over the Chicago-West squad in the inter-city championships.

Lennie's TKO triumph in the last bout of the evening enabled the Eastern squad to score its first win over the West since 1945. If he had lost to Duchene, the teams would have wound up in a 4-4 tie.

It was the second time in less than a month that the hulking youngster came through with a dramatic triumph. Three weeks ago, Kanthal, who has been boxing in amateur competition for a little over a year, came through with a last fight win in the Eastern finals to give his Washington squad the team title.

Since then it was learned that Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, Bill Daly, Vic Marsillo and other well known managers have been trying to latch on to the diamond in the rough.

Lennie, however, still is undecided about pro fighting. And he'll have plenty of time to make up his mind. He has 2½ years to go on his contract with the Marines.

Hockey Loop Sees Playoff Greatest Ever

Montreal, March 23 (AP)—Dick Irvin, coach of the defending Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, rates the National Hockey League playoffs opening here and in Detroit tonight "a tossup."

"I think the four teams in the semi-finals are the best that have entered the Cup series in many years," he observed today. "It's wide open."

"Tonight's action pits the second place Canadiens against the fourth-place Boston Bruins and the first-place Detroit Red Wings against the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. The teams winning four games will qualify for the finals.

The Red Wings have won the regular season title six years in a row, yet have captured the Stanley Cup only twice (1950 and 1952) since they started their skein. The Maple Leafs won it in 1949 and 1951.

Final statistics released today reveal that Detroit's Gordie Howe was the league's scoring leader for the fourth straight year.

The smooth-skating right winger finished with 81 points on 33 goals and 48 assists. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal, tops in goals with 37, was second with 67 points. Ted Lindsay of the Wings was third with 62.

Harry Lumley of Toronto won the Vezina Trophy, allowing only 131 goals. He edged out Detroit's Terry Sawchuk who gave up 132.

Stan Musial's Fast Spring Start Makes Him Choice for 8th Crown

By BEN OLAN
(Associated Press Sportswriter)

Stan Musial, who failed to win his seventh National League batting championship last year only because he got off to a slow start, apparently is aiming to begin with a bang this season.

The slugging St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder slammed a home run, a triple and a single and batted in four runs yesterday as the Redbirds walloped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-3 for their eighth victory in 14 exhibition games.

Stan batted .337 in 1953 and finished third behind Brooklyn's Carl Furillo and teammate Red Schoendienst, but if it wasn't for his early season slump which left him with a .247 average after the first two months, he conceivably could have wound up far in front.

Yesterday's Cards-Phillies game was a close one until Musial drove relief pitcher Duke Markell's second pitch out of the park with two mates aboard in the fourth inning with the score tied 3-3. It was his third home run of the spring.

Gernert Makes Bid

Elsewhere, the question of "Who's on first?" for the Boston Red Sox may soon be answered if Dick Gernert keeps up his present pace.

Gernert socked two home runs, the second a game winning one, as the Boston Red Sox edged the Milwaukee Braves 4-3. Rookie Tom Herrin received credit for the the victory and Gene Conley, another first year man, was charged with the loss.

Red Sox manager Lou Boudreau previously had indicated that Gernert, Harry Aggnis, up from Louisville and Norbert Zauchin, a returning serviceman, would battle for the regular first base job. Second baseman Billy Goodman is also a possibility.

The Cincinnati Redlegs roughed up righthander Dick Donovan for three hits and three runs in the second inning and defeated the Detroit Tigers 4-3. The victory was a costly one, however, as shortstop Roy McMillan suuffered a severe cut on his right instep requiring 22 stitches to close.

Yanks Win

The New York Yankees, seemingly back in form, knocked out southpaw Alex Kellner in the fifth inning and went on to drub the Philadelphia Athletics 12-6.

A team of mixed Brooklyn regulars and rookies pushed over a run in the ninth inning to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

Wet grounds canceled the Baltimore-Cleveland game and the New York Giants tilt against the Mexican All-Stars was called off because of rain. Both Chicago teams and the Washington Senators were not scheduled.

Pro Managers In Hot Pursuit Of Glove Ace

New York, March 23 (AP)—Big-time pro boxing managers today were on the trail of Len Kanthal, a big, 18-year-old heavyweight prospect, but it won't do them any good for a long time. The Marines hold an exclusive contract on the Washington walloper for the next 2½ years.

Kanthal, a 6-3, 207-pound Marine Pfc at Quantico, Va., stopped 19-year-old Leroy Duchene of Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1:47 of the second round at Madison Square Garden last night to give the New York-Eastern Golden Glovers a 5-3 victory over the Chicago-West squad in the inter-city championships.

Lennie's TKO triumph in the last bout of the evening enabled the Eastern squad to score its first win over the West since 1945. If he had lost to Duchene, the teams would have wound up in a 4-4 tie.

It was the second time in less than a month that the hulking youngster came through with a dramatic triumph. Three weeks ago, Kanthal, who has been boxing in amateur competition for a little over a year, came through with a last fight win in the Eastern finals to give his Washington squad the team title.

Since then it was learned that Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, Bill Daly, Vic Marsillo and other well known managers have been trying to latch on to the diamond in the rough.

Lennie, however, still is undecided about pro fighting. And he'll have plenty of time to make up his mind. He has 2½ years to go on his contract with the Marines.

Hockey Loop Sees Playoff Greatest Ever

Montreal, March 23 (AP)—Dick Irvin, coach of the defending Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, rates the National Hockey League playoffs opening here and in Detroit tonight "a tossup."

"I think the four teams in the semi-finals are the best that have entered the Cup series in many years," he observed today. "It's wide open."

"Tonight's action pits the second place Canadiens against the fourth-place Boston Bruins and the first-place Detroit Red Wings against the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. The teams winning four games will qualify for the finals.

The Red Wings have won the regular season title six years in a row, yet have captured the Stanley Cup only twice (1950 and 1952) since they started their skein. The Maple Leafs won it in 1949 and 1951.

Final statistics released today reveal that Detroit's Gordie Howe was the league's scoring leader for the fourth straight year.

The smooth-skating right winger finished with 81 points on 33 goals and 48 assists. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal, tops in goals with 37, was second with 67 points. Ted Lindsay of the Wings was third with 62.

Harry Lumley of Toronto won the Vezina Trophy, allowing only 131 goals. He edged out Detroit's Terry Sawchuk who gave up 132.

Tattoos Suggested To Denote Any Allergy to Drugs

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Cleveland, March 23 (AP)—Suppose you're one of the many people who become dangerously allergic to penicillin or some other drug.

And suppose you're hurt and knocked unconscious. Could a doctor unwittingly give you the drug which is bad for you?

A little tattoo—put in a place which even a Bikini bathing suit wouldn't reveal—could be your vital protection, a physician suggested today.

The tattoos, perhaps the size of a penny, could be squares or triangles or other symbols or letters of the alphabet, representing some specific drug or condition. The meaning of each symbol would be known. By prior agreement, to all doctors.

Identification cards in your wallet or pocketbook, or dog tags around your neck, could do the same thing. But you might lose the cards or forget to wear the dog tags on the day of some disaster, or automobile accident.

The tattoo system could be a more scientific way of carrying your medical warning against a drug or treatment which would give you a very bad reaction or might even cause your death, said Dr. Hugh H. Hussey of Washington, D. C., medical editor of GP, magazine of the American Academy of General Practice.

Dr. Hussey, attending the Academy's annual meeting, said the tattoo method would be discussed editorially in the May issue of GP.

Some people are sensitive to penicillin or other drugs. Or to horse serum used in tetanus antitoxin gives as protection against blood poisoning. Some get very severe reactions and sometimes the reactions are fatal.

Diabetics usually carry identity cards so that if they suffer from sudden lack of insulin, or from accidents, physicians will know they have diabetes, and be guided accordingly in special treatment.

Victims of epilepsy sometimes do the same thing, so it will be known that they may be unconscious from an epileptic attack. And some people who suffer severe drug reactions are also carrying warning cards.

Galleher Pleads Guilty

New City, March 23 (AP)—A youth whose 24-hour rampage terrorized western Rockland county last November has pleaded guilty to charges of assault, burglary and robbery. Peter Galleher, 18, yesterday interrupted his jury trial to plead guilty in Rockland County Court. He will be sentenced April 5. Galleher, a Spring Valley, N. Y., baker's helper, forced his way into the home of Mrs. Howard D. Barnett, 52, at Monsey, N. Y., last Nov. 23. He broke her leg and beat her unconscious as she lay sick with pneumonia. Then he went next door. Finding no one home, he smashed furnishings and took $2,000 in jewels. Until Galleher was arrested 24 hours later, families in the area kept their doors barred and weapons close at hand.

Plans Set for Defense

Bonn, Germany, March 23 (AP)—Plans to recruit 150,000 volunteers to form a basis of West Germany's 12-division contribution to the projected European Defense Community (EDC) Army are complete, German officials said today. These volunteers would be officers, non-commissioned officers and specialists who would train the first conscripts. The Parliamentary Security Committee has approved a bill providing for recruiting of the cadre, officials said, and it will be presented to Parliament as soon as German ratification of EDC is complete.

This was illustrated with slides showing the optical illusion created by various lines and the effect of design on the figure.

Before turning the meeting over to Mrs. Kanter, the chairman, Mrs. Allen D. Potter, announced that Mrs. F. J. Potter and Mrs. Robert DeGroff are members of the Ulster county housing committee and will attend meetings throughout the year.

It was announced also that Mrs. Donald Sprague will start a class in making cotton dresses next week. Those interested were asked to call her at 1784 for details.

Mrs. Kanter will start her classes in basic rayon or silk dresses before April 1. Anyone wishing to join is asked to write to her at Summitville.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Must Be No Question

Cairo, Egypt, March 23 (AP)—President Mohamed Naguib said today Egypt is prepared to resume negotiations with Britain on the Suez Canal base "only if Britain admits our rights without question." The president was commenting to newsmen on British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's statement in the House of Commons yesterday. Eden had said that violence in the Suez Canal area created a difficult atmosphere for the resumption of talks between Britain and Egypt, stalemated since last October. Egypt wants the 80,000-man British garrison withdrawn. Naguib said martial law in Egypt will be lifted "on June 18 or before." Martial law was established after Cairo's fire riots of Jan. 26, 1952.

Released on Bail

Robert Frisch, 18, of New Paltz, who reportedly eloped to Virginia with a 14-year-old Kripplebush girl last week, was released Monday on $1,000 cash bail for grand jury action on a charge of abduction in violation of Section 70, subdivision 1 of the penal law.

Hurley Pays Honor To Chief Snyder

Winfred Snyder, chief of the Hurley Fire Department since 1945, was honored at a testimonial dance at the firehouse Saturday night.

An estimated 200 residents attended the program, which included square and round dancing to the music of "Pappy" Dietz and his band, refreshments, and a short ceremony during which a suitably engraved watch was presented to Snyder.

The presentation was made on behalf of the fire company members and the citizenry by the Rev. John Dykstra, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church and a fire department chaplain. The Rev. Mr. Dykstra was introduced by W. F. Milligan, chairman of the committee in charge of the testimonial.

Those who served on the committee with Milligan included Ernest Meyer, Walter Pilz, Jr., Frank Miller and Raymond Snyder.

Tattoos Suggested To Denote Any Allergy to Drugs

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Cleveland, March 23 (AP)—Suppose you're one of the many people who become dangerously allergic to penicillin or some other drug.

And suppose you're hurt and knocked unconscious. Could a doctor unwittingly give you the drug which is bad for you?

A little tattoo—put in a place which even a Bikini bathing suit wouldn't reveal—could be your vital protection, a physician suggested today.

The tattoos, perhaps the size of a penny, could be squares or triangles or other symbols or letters of the alphabet, representing some specific drug or condition. The meaning of each symbol would be known. By prior agreement, to all doctors.

Identification cards in your wallet or pocketbook, or dog tags around your neck, could do the same thing. But you might lose the cards or forget to wear the dog tags on the day of some disaster, or automobile accident.

The tattoo system could be a more scientific way of carrying your medical warning against a drug or treatment which would give you a very bad reaction or might even cause your death, said Dr. Hugh H. Hussey of Washington, D. C., medical editor of GP, magazine of the American Academy of General Practice.

Dr. Hussey, attending the Academy's annual meeting, said the tattoo method would be discussed editorially in the May issue of GP.

Some people are sensitive to penicillin or other drugs. Or to horse serum used in tetanus antitoxin gives as protection against blood poisoning. Some get very severe reactions and sometimes the reactions are fatal.

Diabetics usually carry identity cards so that if they suffer from sudden lack of insulin, or from accidents, physicians will know they have diabetes, and be guided accordingly in special treatment.

Victims of epilepsy sometimes do the same thing, so it will be known that they may be unconscious from an epileptic attack. And some people who suffer severe drug reactions are also carrying warning cards.

Galleher Pleads Guilty

New City, March 23 (AP)—A youth whose 24-hour rampage terrorized western Rockland county last November has pleaded guilty to charges of assault, burglary and robbery. Peter Galleher, 18, yesterday interrupted his jury trial to plead guilty in Rockland County Court. He will be sentenced April 5. Galleher, a Spring Valley, N. Y., baker's helper, forced his way into the home of Mrs. Howard D. Barnett, 52, at Monsey, N. Y., last Nov. 23. He broke her leg and beat her unconscious as she lay sick with pneumonia. Then he went next door. Finding no one home, he smashed furnishings and took $2,000 in jewels. Until Galleher was arrested 24 hours later, families in the area kept their doors barred and weapons close at hand.

Plans Set for Defense

Bonn, Germany, March 23 (AP)—Plans to recruit 150,000 volunteers to form a basis of West Germany's 12-division contribution to the projected European Defense Community (EDC) Army are complete, German officials said today. These volunteers would be officers, non-commissioned officers and specialists who would train the first conscripts. The Parliamentary Security Committee has approved a bill providing for recruiting of the cadre, officials said, and it will be presented to Parliament as soon as German ratification of EDC is complete.

This was illustrated with slides showing the optical illusion created by various lines and the effect of design on the figure.

Before turning the meeting over to Mrs. Kanter, the chairman, Mrs. Allen D. Potter, announced that Mrs. F. J. Potter and Mrs. Robert DeGroff are members of the Ulster county housing committee and will attend meetings throughout the year.

It was announced also that Mrs. Donald Sprague will start a class in making cotton dresses next week. Those interested were asked to call her at 1784 for details.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Must Be No Question

Cairo, Egypt, March 23 (AP)—President Mohamed Naguib said today Egypt is prepared to resume negotiations with Britain on the Suez Canal base "only if Britain admits our rights without question." The president was commenting to newsmen on British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's statement in the House of Commons yesterday. Eden had said that violence in the Suez Canal area created a difficult atmosphere for the resumption of talks between Britain and Egypt, stalemated since last October. Egypt wants the 80,000-man British garrison withdrawn. Naguib said martial law in Egypt will be lifted "on June 18 or before." Martial law was established after Cairo's fire riots of Jan. 26, 1952.

Released on Bail

Robert Frisch, 18, of New Paltz, who reportedly eloped to Virginia with a 14-year-old Kripplebush girl last week, was released Monday on $1,000 cash bail for grand jury action on a charge of abduction in violation of Section 70, subdivision 1 of the penal law.

Hurley Pays Honor To Chief Snyder

Winfred Snyder, chief of the Hurley Fire Department since 1945, was honored at a testimonial dance at the firehouse Saturday night.

An estimated 200 residents attended the program, which included square and round dancing to the music of "Pappy" Dietz and his band, refreshments, and a short ceremony during which a suitably engraved watch was presented to Snyder.

The presentation was made on behalf of the fire company members and the citizenry by the Rev. John Dykstra, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church and a fire department chaplain. The Rev. Mr. Dykstra was introduced by W. F. Milligan, chairman of the committee in charge of the testimonial.

Those who served on the committee with Milligan included Ernest Meyer, Walter Pilz, Jr., Frank Miller and Raymond Snyder.

Benedictine School of Nurses Exercises

At the capping exercises of Our Lady of Victory School of Nursing, Benedictine Hospital, Sunday afternoon, the following 20 young ladies dedicated themselves to the nursing career:

First Row: Joan Ann Cahill, Esther Jane Geary, Hazel M. Gadd, Patricia Ann Murphy, Gail A. Gallup, Benita E. Johnson, Audrey E. Hauser, Jadwiga C. Brzytwa.

Second Row: Mary Faith Miller, Frances T. Allen, Carol M. Scharp, Sonja I. Shaheen, Delia W. Veltri, Eileen F. Collins, Cecelia Ann Brooks, Denise Jo Baxter, Mary Anne Smith, Joan Marie Parisi, Agnes M. Young, Patricia Ann Eastman.

Capping Exercises At Benedictine

Addressing the class of new nurses at capping exercises Sunday in Benedictine Hospital, the Rev. Joseph D. Ostermann of St. Aloysius Church, Livingston Manor, formerly of St. Peter's Church, this city, said to the 20 young students of the school of nursing "You are putting on the cap of a nurse which indicates that you are engaged from now on in the service of mankind—the helmet of salvation.

"Your work is to be the same as the work of the Savior—to relieve pain, to lift up spirits that are broken, to do good, to help mankind. That is a very dignified, wonderful dedication. But, it might be assumed that some would take that dedication for ulterior motives, less worthy motives.

"The profession of nursing is indeed a dignified profession. It is a service to mankind and well regarded to become professional people.

"You might say that you have assumed a kind of financial security, social security by taking up this profession, but no matter what else, no matter what may become of you, no matter what you may have in mind as your career—this particular profession is a wonderful basis....

Difficult to Remain Dedicated

"All the idealism of this profession is something that poets could not exhaust in their description. It is something that only angels can properly describe. For it is the description of the life of The Savior Himself, Who was the ideal in the service of mankind.

"Today, in this day of materialism, it is so hard for us to keep our minds dedicated to the higher things, to be the noble things, to keep from being contaminated by the sordid material, earthy motives which seem to find their way and infiltrate themselves into the nobility of our souls. It is so hard for us to look at the clear sky, to keep those motives, those ideals from contamination."

Love God, Fellowman

Father Ostermann told the nurses that "It is only the word of God that is going to make you prove your ideal," and he stressed that they should carry on their work for the love of God and the love of their fellowman.

"We must understand that men are brothers," he said, "and they can only be brothers, and we can only be convinced of the fact that we are brothers and sisters because of the Fatherhood of God. Hence, follows very definitely the brotherhood of man and the nobility of that brotherhood, the splendor of that brotherhood, the idealism of that brotherhood is indicated definitely and genuinely only by the Great Brother Who came down from the Father Who was born into our midst in order to give us a real, tangible understanding of that brotherhood, a brotherhood that suffered for everyone of us that He shed His last drop of blood that His brothers might understand there were no limits to the service that He would Give."

Stressing that the graduates were starting on a life of service, Father Ostermann said, "Service is nothing else but the measure, the gauge of love. How much do you love? How much will you serve? And whom do you serve when you serve in the least capacity?

"You have every evidence of that. 'Inasmuch as you have done it to these my least brethern you have done it unto Me.' And in doing unto Him you have done it to your Brother Who is Christ. And, when you do it to your brother you do it to Christ. . . .

"This is a glorious day for you. The first step in your new career. Make it positive, make it definite, make it proudly and willingly. You are part of the consecrated multitude in the service of God serving mankind."

The impressive ceremony of capping took place in the beautifully decorated hospital chapel. The Rev. Austin V. Carey, chaplain, officiated and blessed the nurses caps. Sister Callista, directress of the school of nursing, capped the new students, assisted by the members of the senior class.

The exercises closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Immediately after the ceremony the parents and friends of the students were entertained at a tea, Miss Joan Dugan, president of the Student Council Association, and Miss Josephine Daley, vice-president, poured assisted by the other members of the Senior Class.

Talks at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson cites as dangerous what he calls the "growth in popularity of unreason and anti-intellectualism." The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate told Princeton University seniors last night they should not fear taking unpopular positions. "All progress," he said at a dinner given by the Princeton senior class, "has resulted from people who took unpopular positions." Earlier in the day, in Trenton, Stevenson decried a recommendation by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that lie detector tests be given to all persons involved in the senator's controversy with the army. "We have reached a lamentable state," Stevenson declared, "if we have to rely on lie detector tests for responsible public officials." Stevenson, who was graduated from Princeton in 1922, touched on world problems and then spent a half hour after his talk to answer questions from the audience.

Tillson

Prizes consisting of hunting, camping and fishing equipment were awarded winners.
